One Lion or 100 Rats They Hate Us "Over There" [illegible] and Children

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1926, by The Star Company)

MUSSOLINI'S remedy for Europe's trouble is "GET RID OF DEMOCRACY."

Fascism ends class war, restores authority to the nation, taking it from quarreling individuals, says Mussolini.

Voltaire, discussing democracy and monarchy, said it didn't make much difference to a poor man whether he was eaten by one lion or by one hundred rats.

MUSSOLINI says, "Conditions which have changed leave no justification for the immortal principles of the French revolution."

That's a matter of opinion. The French Republic inherits the principles of the Revolution. Napoleon I., temporary director, slaughtered millions of Frenchmen and ended a prisoner of the British. His worthless successor, Napoleon III., took charge and he and France were beaten to a frazzle by Bismarck.

AND IT WAS under the French Republic that the glory of France was restored, the greatest war in all history won, Alsace and Lorraine taken back from Germany. Principles of the French Revolution will outlive by many centuries a theory that one man, no matter how able, can drive millions of others with the toe of his boot.

BECAUSE French crowds occasionally mob American and British tourists, Senator Reed of Pennsylvania advises Americans to boycott Paris. That would be foolish. To one class of Americans France offers education, to another bigger class, it offers excellent wines.

The French, in trouble and needing a scapegoat, will recover

Record Rainfall Cripples Traffic

HUB CLOUDBURST JAMS ALL SUBWAYS, FLOODS STREETS AND CELLARS

Traffic was tied up, streets and cellars flooded and thousands of commuters were late for work today as a result of a downpour of tropical intensity that struck Boston and environs at the height of the rush hour.

In forty minutes, from 8:30 to 9:10 a. m., the unusual amount of [illegible].5 inches of rain fell, unequalled in a like period since August 7, 1908.

Gutters were turned into foaming torrents across which gallant traffic officers carried fashionably slim flappers, and in some places where the catchbasins bogged down, the water filled the entire streets from curb to curb.

At 11:15, when the rain ceased, the weather bureau reported that a total precipitation of 1.69 inches had taken place.

The official forecast reads: Cloudy today; showers tonight and probably tomorrow.

It was not expected that the temperature would go above 85 over the week-end.

To add to the gaiety of nations a water main broke at Columbia road and Hamilton street, Dorchester, under the New Haven bridge, turning loose a flood that rose above the

ARREST OF R. I. WOMAN 'DOCTOR' DRAWS NEAR

Providence, July 24.—Arrest of the woman sought for conducting an illegal surgery mill here appeared imminent today, while the investigation by the police spread into a fourfold probe.

One new angle of the investigation is an effort on the part of the authorities to verify reports that the woman, whose last operation cost the life of Emelda Bourque of Moosup, Ct., and bared the "surgery mill" which enjoyed political protection.

The police now express the opinion several doctors of well established reputation in the State are among those who sent girls to this woman. While these lines were being followed, hunt was still on for the woman surgeon and for many alleged women agents who collected bonuses for sending her patients.

Believing they had found the probable whereabouts of the woman in a foreign quarter here, the East

BELIEVE MAN DROWNED FLEEING POLICE SHOTS

Leaping from a rowboat into Chelsea creek under fire from a policeman's revolver, after being detected stealing rubber, one man made his escape by swimming and a second sank beneath the surface today. Believing the second man was wounded, police grappled for the body for hours but without success.

The two thieves were seen in the Revere Rubber factory by Sergt. Isbister of Chelsea. As he approached they ran to the creek and, pushing off a boat, started rowing across. Isbester opened fire, after ordering them to stop, and both leaped overboard. One escaped but the other, after swimming 100 yards, sank. Three hundred sheets of rubber composition valued at $300 was found piled on the shore.

RED SOX WIN FIRST GAME AT FENWAY

Fenway Park, July 24.—Fred Heimach, the big left-hander, was picked to hurl the first game of the double-header with the Browns. Win Ballou, a former Senator, was on the slab for the Browns. The heavy rain and threatening weather kept the attendance down to about 1,500.

THIS NIFTY LITTLE ARMFUL MAKES LIFE JOYFUL

THIS COPPING JOB HAS ADVANTAGES

If you're a cop and turned ferry for a bevy of Boston beauties on a day like this, you know why gallant Officer James Steele wears an exact duplicate of the smile that won't come off as he trudges—oh, so slowly—across the "River Tremont" through the School street canal with pretty Alma Lambirth of Everett. Why, a cloudburst is joy to him!

U. S. Plans to Protest Rioting in France

Paris, July 24 (A.P.)—While the Bourse was closed today the franc showed steady improvement on unofficial quotations. It was quoted at 9 o'clock at 41.75 to the dollar and 204 to the pound sterling, as against last night's official closing of 42.87 and 208.25, respectively. At 10 o'clock the quotations were 41.12 to the dollar and 200 to the pound; at 11 o'clock 40.87 and 198.75, and at noon 40.91 and 199.

Paris, July 24.—Diplomatic protests against French demonstrations of an anti-American nature appeared possible today.

For the fourth successive time huge crowds gathered on the boulevards and stormed sight-seeing cars containing tourists, mostly Americans, and refused to allow the cars to leave.

The American embassy has taken no action as yet, but it is understood that a number of complaints have been received by the embassy and it may be necessary to file a formal protest with the French government.

The police intervened in the new outbreaks and made a few arrests, but did not succeed in preventing several fist-fights. Finally, appearing unwilling to take any drastic action against the demonstrators, the police advised the tourists to aban-

MERRYMAKERS ESCAPE DEATH IN COLLAPSE OF HALL ON MAINE BORDER

Bangor, Me., July 24 (A.P.).—Word was received here today of the falling of a roof and wall upon 200 dancers in a new hall in Rollingham, N. B., a few miles across the line from Calais.

One woman had her leg broken, another was badly burned and many were said to have been seriously injured in the mad scramble which followed in the darkness.

The cause was attributed to the heavy wind.

'SUICIDE ELOPERS' GET MONEY FROM CHECKS

Machias, Me., July 24.—Although reported seen several times, Nellie Piper and David Coughlin, fourteen year old Ellsworth elopers, were still at large today, despite the search being made by Sheriff James A. Cummings and a posse.

The boy is believed to be well supplied with money, as two Ellsworth merchants reported cashing checks for him recently totaling $75.

The checks were drawn upon an Ellsworth business concern, and are alleged to have been forged.

The sheriff and his posse beat the woods between this town and East Machias, during the forenoon, and once thought they saw two persons on a high cliff. Arrived at the base of the cliff, the searchers found no one.

Search was resumed in the afternoon, but no definite trace of the young couple has been received since they abandoned their automobile and disappeared into the woods yesterday afternoon.

At that time, James Coughlin, elder brother of the 14-year-old would-be husband, who broke up a previous attempt at elopement, took back to Ellsworth the automobile which Nellie and David had hired there. The machine was stocked with provisions, tent and other equipment for camping out.

Harlan Holmes of East Machias reported seeing a couple on the highway at 2 o'clock, but was not certain of their identity in the darkness. Sheriff Cummings said there was no danger that the roamers could be lost in the woods, as the section is not extensive and roads are close by with the lights of surrounding towns visible from the heights.

Parents of the Piper girl say that on Wednesday night she slept on a couch downstairs and thus was able to leave with Coughlin without disturbing the household.

OFFERED WOMAN RIDE; LOSES HIS LICENSE

Accused of trying to induce a young married woman to ride home with him in his automobile, Henry P. Cambra of New Bedford has lost his driver's license in an order issued by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin.

Registrar Goodwin was notified by the New Bedford police that the woman and her husband reported Cambra drove alongside her as she was walking home and invited her to ride. She paid no attention and a few moments later he again drew alongside and extended the invitation.

In explanation, Cambra is said to have told the police his car stalled just as he was passing the woman. Acting Police Chief McLeod, in his letter to the registrar recommending suspension of the license, wrote: "If his engine stalls when he comes alongside a woman on the street, he is an incompetent driver." The habit of stopping to pick up women has become too prevalent, he added.

HUNT 2 MORE DOCTORS IN DEATH 'BOX' CASE

Investigators today entered into a new stage of the probe into the death of Edith L. Greene, pretty State ward, whose dismembered body was found in two boxes and a burlap bag near New Calvary Cemetery.

It was announced that the identity of physicians other than Dr. Thomas E. Walsh and Dr. J. Leo Hanson, thought to have participated in cutting up the body, was known.

Disclosure to the police of this information marked the completion of the investigation into the tragic death which has been underway for several days.

Arrests are expected momentarily. The authorities stated today that physicians other than Drs. Walsh and Hanson were at the Walsh home during the party which went merrily on as the pretty State ward was dying. They have interviewed several persons who were at the party with the result that the names of other physicians were made known.

SEA-GOING BUSES NAVIGATE CHARLES STREET AS HUB DROPS "YUMA-ESQUE" ASPECT FOR HIGH TIDE ROLE hubs of automobiles and caused diverting of traffic.

As the throng poured out of the South Station subway, scores of persons were knocked off the escalators during the height of the storm, as those who preceded them choked the sidewalk.

They, in turn, were thrust into the downpour by the ever-growing crowd and at one time it was estimated that 10,000 people were standing within and just outside the terminal.

The storm was accompanied by an electrical disturbance which was more intense in the suburbs than in the city proper.

Office lights were turned on and automobile headlights cast a weird radiance on the streets.

COPS PROVE GALLANTRY.

A sewer on Chauncy street backed up, pouring a torrent into the Chauncy street subway, but three catch basins fortuitously placed took care of the overflow sufficiently to prevent it reaching the hurrying throngs leaving trains.

One traffic officer who earned tremendous popularity with the girls was James Steele, stationed at Tremont and School streets. At this spot the gutters ran full, the water extending out into the street due to blocked catchbasins.

Steele plunged into the flood and began carrying the women across the street, puffing vigorously at times when he injudiciously picked a girl whose weight was ingeniously concealed by the costume she wore.

HEAT'S TOLL 55.

Relief from the heat had arrived long before the storm, a mild east wind having put in its appearance last evening.

After taking the lives of fifty-five persons throughout New England, directly or indirectly, the heat wave passed on out to sea and the mercury dropped steadily.

After the first torrential downpour, the rain fell more gently for half an hour, when it again increased in intensity, and shortly before 11 o'clock was falling in sheets of water that obscured the view in the streets, and almost brought traffic to a standstill.

SPANISH AIRMAN HITS MOUNTAIN; IS KILLED

Madrid, July 24 (I.N.S.).—Captain Gimenes of the Spanish air forces was mortally injured today when the plane in which he was flying with two companions crashed into the Puetro Piquer mountains. They were flying in a fog. Captain Gallarza and the mechanic, Arozamena, both of whom took part in the recent Madrid to Manila flight, escaped without injury.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS TWO MEN, TWO WOMEN

Buffalo, N. Y., July 24 (I.N.S.).—Two women and two men died today as the result of drinking liquor in a soft drink parlor. The dead: Mrs. Helen Dilliot, forty-three; Mary Gilman, twenty-one; Stanislaus Wrubl, fifty-six; Anthony Korsak, forty. A third man, Frank Gornak, thirty-six, is blind and in a critical condition from the same cause.

5 DYING FROM AUTO CRASHES

Five persons are dying in New England hospitals while nine others, including Ethel La Pierre, Boston's "Sally O'Neil," are victims of accidents, though less seriously injured.

Two South Boston girls were picked up by the Dorchester police after an all-night auto ride with two boy friends in a stolen car. The girls, Josephine O'Leary of West Fourth street and Catherine O'Leary of Gold street, were taken to the City Hospital, while the men they named, Francis Mahoney of Mercer street, and Michael E. Connolly of Broadway, were turned over to the police.

The stolen car, according to the girls, plunged down an embankment in Mattapan.

The LaPierre girl was cut and bruised when the automobile in which she was riding struck a tree in Revere, while her companion, Viola Schmidt of Dorchester, was probably fatally injured.

Patrolman Joseph F. Gallant of the Joy street station was arrested at Hampton Beach, N. H., as a result of an accident in which his fiancee, Theresa Goulding of No. 108 Sagamore avenue, Chelsea, was probably fatally injured.

Mrs. Doris Stone of the West End is dying of injuries received when she was struck by a taxi near the Charles River Esplanade.

David Gigodo, three years old, of Roxbury, sustained three fractured ribs when he was knocked down by an automobile while crossing Harrison avenue.

Culiana Terribil is dying as a result of being knocked down in Beverly by the car driven by Mrs. R. Weinstein of Roxbury. Mrs. Weinstein was less seriously injured.

Two are reported dying as the result of a crash between a street car and an automobile at Broadway and Sixth street, Cambridge. Margaret Hanlon, No. 33 Market street, and Joseph Moore, No. 251 Cambridge street, are in dangerous condition at Cambridge Hospital.

Three others, who figured in the accident riding in the auto of Richard Corkum, No. 361 Cambridge street, were less seriously injured.

At the City Hospital John J. De Lappe, seven years old, of No. 56 Granger street, Dorchester, is suffering with a broken leg, received when he was knocked down by an automobile as he was crossing Freeport street.

Attacked by Knife-Wielder

Harry Porter, thirty-three, of Randolph, informed the police today that he was attacked by an unidentified man wielding a knife at Shawmut avenue and Northampton street. Porter was treated at City Hospital for several scalp wounds, and will return to Boston, Monday to obtain a John Doe warrant charging assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

TROOPS GUARD CANTON HOMES

Canton, O., July 24 (A.P.).—Heavily armed Ohio National Guard troops in plain clothes are guarding the homes of several prominent Canton officials and possible witnesses in connection with the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher.

Presence of the armed troops was revealed from three official sources early today.

The officials said the precaution was being taken because of continued threats against officials unless they dropped the investigation. One of the homes being guarded was that of C. B. McClintock, Stark County prosecutor, heading the county's investigation.

Meanwhile, it was learned, postal officials were on their way to Canton to investigate threats made through the mails and which have come from points as far distant as Cairo, Ill., and New York.

URGES IMPOSITION OF TAXES ON PISTOLS

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Imposition of high taxes on pistols, restriction of sale to persons of proved good character, numbering on each small arm and recording of its disposition, were recommended by Representative Ogden L. Mills today.

His suggestions were contained in a letter read at the first business session of the sub-committee of the National Crime Commission of Laws regulating sale of small arms.

Ajax, Jr., Proves Noah Didn't Need Ark

Ajax defied the lightning, but several hundred rain-bound "L" passengers at the Chauncy street-Summer street station saw a modern Ajax who made the old-timer look like a pacifist as a defier.

This fellow walked up Summer street when great sheets of rain fell. He wore a light tweed suit, a leghorn hat, gloves, and carried a cane. He had no umbrella, no rain-coat, no protection whatever, but he wore a flower in his button-hole and a beatific smile on his countenance. He was all wet.

"Love" Death 3

HOW MANY MORE?
Emelda Bourque, 17, of Moosup, Ct., is the "third Edie Greene" revealed within a fortnight. She died in Providence and her death bares an illegal "surgery mill" conducted by a woman "doctor." Boston and New England are beginning to wonder where it'll all end.

TELEPHONE MEN "CUT IN" NEW NEEDHAM CENTRAL

Without interrupting service, engineers of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company will put a new central office building and switchboard in use at midnight tonight at Needham. The new equipment was made necessary by a large increase in telephone use there since the first of the year, the Needham central office force of 24 operators being called upon now to handle more than 14,500 calls daily. The new office building is designed for beauty as well as service and has a pure Colonial doorway among its features.

HUNT WOMAN IN SURGERY 'MILL'

Providence police inspectors and Police Chief Adams announced a plan to obtain a search warrant and make a series of raids.

State police of Rhode Island and Connecticut joined with the police of East Providence and Moosup in the hunt. The suspect is described as fifty years old, gray-haired and of attractive appearance.

The victim of the illegal operation had gone to East Providence two weeks before the operation, and the "surgeon" told her she would operate upon her for $25, just as she had for many other girls.

Her mother, Mrs. Anna Bourque, led the police posse to a house in Willet avenue, East Providence, where the operation was performed. Mrs. Bourque told police she had accompanied her daughter there on the fatal day.

HAD MANY "AGENTS."

According to the authorities, the bogus surgeon catered to unmarried girls in the mill towns of Rhode Island and Connecticut, and they now seek to arrest her in connection with other deaths due to illegal surgery.

She had scores of female representatives in various localities, who received commissions for patients sent to her, it is alleged.

Surrounded by her ten children in her modest Moosup, Ct., home, Mrs. Bourque, who is of French Canadian descent, related exclusively to the Boston Evening American the details of her daughter's romance and ill-fated end.

SHE FORBADE MARRIAGE.

"We moved here from Canada three years ago," Mrs. Bourque sobbed. "Emelda made the acquaintance of a youth of 20 and kept secret trysts with him. They often sat on the front doorstep. I never met him, but I know his name.

"He wanted to marry her, but I forbade the union because he had a bad reputation.

"Then one day Emelda came to me and confided the secret of her condition to me. She said a woman doctor in East Providence had guaranteed to help her for $25.

"When I refused to sanction the operation, Emelda said she would take her life or disappear, so I yielded.

"On July 7 we went to the Willett avenue house. A gray haired woman, who turned out to be the surgeon, took my daughter in one room and I remained in the parlor.

"Our doctor ordered her to the hospital where she died. My soul is tortured for not having permitted the marriage."

The Girl Who Never Had a Chance

—By Paul Whelton—

CHAPTER VI.

In the "open files" of the district attorney's records there is a letter carrying a heading: "61 Telegraph street, South Boston, Sept. 28, 1925."

This letter says, verbatim:

"My dear, darling Edith:

"Well, dear, how are you feeling now? I sincerely hope you are not in the same predicament that you were in the last time we were together. Are you dear?

"I've been talking to my boss about saving money. He knows I haven't saved a penny in all my life and he knows how intensely interested I am in a certain young lady (Edith Louise Greene).

"I told him I wanted to save, and he advised co-operative shares. I am planning to let him take so much a week out of my pay to save for me. What do you think, dear?

"Well, Edith dear, I can hardly keep my eyes open and so I will close now. I can hardly wait until I see you next week. Maybe I can get down to see you Wednesday.

"With the same love that will live forever, I am yours forever. Jim."

FATEFUL WORD.

Forever! A word of varied meanings with variance ruled by circumstance. Long, limitless years lengthening into decades, straggling on into generations, into centuries, periods, ages—reaching across the far horizon on time to be lost in infinity.

Forever! A day, a week, a month—or nine months and a brief fraction over, as Edith Louise Greene's "forever" was to be when from her Jimmie came this message of endearment to Swampscott, where "the girl who never had a chance" was employed as nurse-maid in the home of Mrs. A. J. Buckley.

They had plighted their troth, these two; had sworn fidelity after a few weeks of acquaintanceship.

But there is no reckoning with love; no reckoning with Fate.

"I met Jimmie Ford several times," says Mrs. Buckley of Edith's sweetheart. "So far as I know, he was the only man in her life and I thought he was a very fine young fellow.

"I liked him very much, and Edith, too, was a wonderful girl. She did not have any bad habits of living as bad habits are reckoned today in open living."

A healthy, blooming girl. Time and care had overcome the malady for which she had been under treatment at the Massachusetts Hospital School in Canton the previous Spring, where Dr. ish is superintendent.

Cheery sprite. A girl still laughing her way through life as a State ward, making light of her station on the surface, but underneath always determined to reach a higher station than that of the kitchen and the scullery; than that of a broken-shoed slavey, slattern and slack and hopeless.

IN DREAM WORLD.

"Jimmie" was to be her outlet. Her Jimmie, frankly and wonderfully the ardent lover; diligently the champion; masterfully the captain of her soul.

Another year was rounding out its course on the calendar, but their heed was not for mere years. Eighteen has no thought for time—nor twenty-one.

They took their joys and pleasures together, shared their sorrows, put away each other's fears—or thought they put them away. When Edith's evenings were free she spent them with Jimmie. When she had hours too short to come to Boston Jimmie went to Swampscott.

All through the Winter!

In a dream world they lived—Jimmie and Edith—making plans, proposing, accepting, weeding, discarding suggestions for the home that was to come; for the long life of joy and peace that was to be lived.

Jimmie's hard-earned dollars above his savings went into presents for "his girl," a wrist watch, jewelry, knick-knacks dear to a girl's heart. In return she gave him her love and he was satisfied that it should be this way.

In a few months, a very few months, they would be married now, each told the other. Then the hands of Edith, so used to toiling for the beauty of other people's homes, would toil in a labor of love for their own home.

With her own hands Edith would cook Jimmie's meals, would keep his wardrobe mended and neat; at the door she would give him farewell in the morning and greet him at night.

And when the wind whistled without and the snow and sleet beat upon the panes, they would sit together, beneath the glowing lamp, cozy and snug.

Dreams of youth in love!

RETURNS TO BOSTON.

Then it was Spring, the birds were winging back North, warm winds were blowing and the first thin green appeared as a tint in the trees. Edith finished her duties in the Buckley household at Swampscott and came back to Boston.

She went to work at the Psychopathic Hospital in the laboratory on April 26, 1926. First she was a maid but in a few short weeks she was promoted to be an assistant.

An advantageous transfer it was reckoned by both Jimmie and Edith, for now they could see each other more often. Even when, at the end of two months, Edith was dismissed from the hospital because she took an afternoon off without permission, they reckoned her return to Boston a happy transfer.

Until the day that Edith told Jimmie she was to become a mother.

But one more chapter remains in the life story of Edith Louise Greene, "The Girl Who Never Had a Chance." It is a chapter of tragedy, of swift denouement, of love laid in ashes—of a hacked and butchered body. Watch for it Monday in the Boston Evening American. Read it! Perhaps some day you may have opportunity to help another "girl who never had a chance."

LIFE FIGHT FOR 3 UP TO FULLER

Governor Fuller, Monday, will be asked to give back the lives of John J. Devereaux, Edward J. Heinlein and John J. McLaughlin, which the State has demanded as a forfeit in two weeks' time for the Waltham car barn slaying.

Formal request by the clemency committee, working in behalf of the Brighton youths, will be made at the State House by Frank J. Manning. Presentation of the public petition and arguments in favor of commutation will be made later.

Resolutions urging executive action were received today by the committee from St. Columbkille Court 65, M. C. O. F., and from Brighton Council, K. of C. Copies of the resolutions were sent to the Governor by two lodges.

The committee announced a mass meeting will be held in the near future and persons gathering signatures on petitions were urged to turn in papers as soon as possible.

Plumbers' Pay Raised

Holyoke, July 24 (A.P.).—Strike of journeymen plumbers that began Monday was ended today when a compromise was reached whereby a wage increase from $1 to $1.12½ an hour will take effect September 1. The sheet metal workers today accepted a similar compromise.

Cat Shares Jag of Sleeping Master

According to a prominent Lynn physician of unblemished veracity, a hitherto respectable cat was innocently ruined in his city during the recent heat wave.

A citizen whose name the physician refuses to reveal, took to strong liquors to forget the heat, and fell asleep on a couch. Perspiration appeared on his brow. The family cat, realizing the master was suffering, licked his brow. The cat became intoxicated and according to the physician is still suffering from the heebie-jeebies.

BLONDES START DEFENSE FUND

Chicago, July 24 (I.N.S.).—The blonde strike instituted by the Blonde Choristers' Association of New York against Flo Ziegfeld and his "Follies of 1926," received local support when Lorelei Lee, stellar character of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" playing at the Selwyn Theatre, wired union officials and pledged to support the strikers and further pledged to raise a strike fund of $100,000 among blondes and real gentlemen.

In the wire sent to Miss Kae English, chairman of the striking choristers, Lorelei Lee branded Ziegfeld's remarks about blondes as being "unfounded, malicious, untruthful, biased and exceedingly libelous."

Miss Lee further stated that blondes have been the leaders in all feminine movements since the dark ages and have alone been responsible for the success, happiness and wealth of Flo Ziegfeld.

"Even angels are blondes," stated the wire, "and all of the world has been taught to love, admire, honor and respect the representatives of love, honor and righteousness."

Interviewed in her dressing room, Miss Lee stated that brunettes are not to be trusted that they are selfish, trouble mongers and their beauty is false.

RUM DEATHS UP 600 PER CENT.

New York, July 24 (A.P.)—There has been an increase of 25 per cent. in alcoholic deaths in 1926 over 1925 among the 17,000,000 policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Figures made public today by the company reveal that the number of alcoholic deaths since the first year of prohibition has increased 400 per cent. among the same group.

GIANT NAVY AIRSHIP WILL COST $5,000,000

White Pines Camp, N. Y., July 24 (I.N.S.).—A giant airship nearly three times the size of the ill fated Shenandoah will cap the Navy's aviation program for the fiscal year 1928, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur announced here today following a conference with President Coolidge. The budget bureau will be asked to approve a five to six million dollar item for construction of the lighter-than-air ship of 6,000,000 cubic feet.

BLONDE CHORINES PLAN WAR ON ZIEGFELD

DEMAND RETRACTION

BOY RUNS AWAY FROM CONCORD REFORMATORY

Seventeen-year-old John Bozek of Holyoke, a trusty at the Concord Reformatory, escaped from that institution today. Bozek with other boys went to the barn at 4:30 to help milk and fifteen minutes later walked out into the darkness. A reward of $50 is offered. The missing prisoner is described as five feet ten inches tall, of light complexion, with a scar on his right lip, and wearing a gray uniform.

FIND BODY OF MISSING SOUTH BOSTON SWIMMER

The body of John Walzaitis of No. 565 East Eighth street, South Boston, was found floating off the landing of the Mosquito Fleet Yacht Club today by Charles Larkin and George Madison. Walzaitis went swimming at the foot of I street on Thursday, and when he did not return that night his daughter went to the beach and found her father's clothes. Police had been dragging for the body when the two men reported their find.

NEW CHIEF IN DRY CLEANUP

Carrying out a threat, Chief of Police John Heaney of Braintree, who has been chief only three weeks, led the entire police force with guns drawn in a series of liquor raids, most of them in the South Braintree section, where John Vito of Boston was slain in a bootleggers' row.

Eight persons, including one woman, were arrested and a large quantity of beer, wine, straight alcohol and other liquors was seized at eight houses for which Chief Heaney had search warrants, secretly obtained.

As word flashed around Braintree that the new chief was on the warpath, scores of residents turned out in automobiles to follow the raiders from place to place. The "clean-up" drive, which Chief Heaney promised when he took office on July 1, lasted until nearly daylight.

Those arrested were taken to headquarters, booked and held for arraignment in Quincy district court. They are Mrs. Annie Predesco of Crest avenue; Nicholas George of Granite street, South Braintree; George Moschella, Granite street; Michael Richardi, Granite street; Lucien Richardi, Granite street; Frank Callino, Pond street; Nicholas Thomas, Sherman road; Charles Reynolds, Clayton avenue.

At the place where Lucien Richardi was arrested, no liquor was found by the raiding party, but he was taken in custody on previous evidence of an alleged sale.

One section of South Braintree has been the object of public complaint since Johnny Vito, a prize fighter, was murdered there under mysterious circumstances that the authorities were never able to solve. The investigation uncovered stories of wholesale bootlegging and hi-jacking by organized gangs.

TWO AGED CONNECTICUT WOMEN DIE AT SAME TIME

Oneco, Ct., July 24 (I.N.S.)—Two of the oldest women in this State died today at almost the same minute. Mrs. Emily Gillette, 100 years and six months old, died at the home of her son in Bayville. Mrs. Margaret Armitage, ninety-eight, died at Ellington.

SPANISH CROWN PRINCE IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Hendaye, France, July 24 (I.N.S.)—The Spanish Crown Prince Alphonso is suffering from a serious attack of hemophilia which is growing daily worse, according to Madrid advices today.

YD-CADETS ARE BACK IN HUB

The Yankee Division and the First Corps Cadets returned to Boston today after tours of duty of two weeks duration, the YD at Camp Devens, the Cadets at Fort Terry, Long Island, New York.

Through streets that had been freshly washed for their arrival by a downpour of rain the soldiers marched, the guardsmen from the North Station and the Cadets from the South. Boston's streets resounded to the blare of bands and the tramp of brogue-clad feet.

The tour at Devens was something of a jinx, the climax coming when the soldiers were forced to fight a fire last night that threatened sick men in hospitals.

FAT MEN'S CLUB TO FROLIC AT NAHANT

"Jim" Purcell, one time city councillor, now boniface at the Bass Point House, Nahant, has his menage busy today prepared to feed an army, for tomorrow the United States Fat Men's Club descends upon him in a body to eat him out of house and home.

Jim has contracted to give the leviathans a dinner for $1.50 each. From every hotel along the New England coast goes up a moan of incredulity from a thousand hotel proprietors. They figure that Jim doesn't realize what he has contracted for, but the secret is that Jim is a member of the club himself, and is not trying to make money on his brother Falstaffs. The obese gents leave Boston at 2 o'clock.

NEW LEOPARD IN ZOO TRIES TO CHEW UP OWNER

North Bergen, N. J., July 24 (I.N.S.)—John C. Snyder, owner of the zoo at Columbia Amusement Park, is recovering today from injuries sustained when attacked by a newly arrived Indian leopard which he was attempting to place in one of the cages. The animal tore his scalp and left arm. While the animal's teeth were sunk in his arm Snyder managed to choke off the beast with his right hand. Snyder leaped to the iron door of the cage and closed it, collapsing a moment later.

'I'LL MARRY NO MORE,' HER VOW AGAIN

Star, Showered With Gems by Rich Floridian, Slips Off Under Count's Name

New York, July 24.—Peggy Hopkins Joyce sailed secretly for Europe early today after breaking her engagement to Stanford Comstock, millionaire real estate dealer.

The famous blonde beauty was booked on the Homeric as Countess Gosta Morner. The Count, who was divorced from Miss Joyce a few months ago, did not know she was sailing. Nor did Mr. Comstock.

Miss Joyce is going to Venice for two weeks. Then she will go to Paris to buy gowns which will be used in a play in which she will star under the management of Earl Carroll.

SHOWER OF GEMS.

Before Miss Joyce sailed she frankly admitted her engagement to Comstock had been called off by mutual agreement. They are still good friends. Miss Joyce displayed as evidence of their friendship a diamond and sapphire bracelet that cost $32,000, a new motor car and a heart-shaped diamond pendant worth $5,000.

"I shall never, never, never marry again," said Peggy with a shake of her shapely blonde head. "I am going to have lots of fun in Venice and I am taking my maid with me, and my secretary, too."

HAS HAD FOUR HUBBIES.

Miss Joyce and Comstock announced their engagement last Winter. They were to have been married this Summer. Comstock, who is a handsome, genial chap, proudly displayed his pretty fiancee in the theatres and night clubs.

Had Miss Joyce married Comstock he would have been her fifth husband. In their respective order, so to speak, her husbands have been Everett Archer, Philbrick Hopkins, Stanley Joyce and Count Gosta Morner, Swedish nobleman.

HUGE SUB V3 IN 229-FT. DIVE

Provincetown, July 24 (I.N.S.).—The newly-constructed United States submarine V3 established a new record for deepsea diving off Long Point, Massachusetts Bay, today by making a plunge of 229 feet.

The previous record made by the V2 was 217 feet.

The V3, under command of Lieutenant C. A. Lockwood, carried a crew of seven officers and 75 men. In her record dive she was beneath the water nearly half an hour.

Built in Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard, the V3 came to Provincetown a few days ago to make the attempt for a new record.

KODAK SECRETARY LEAVES $2,269,661

Rochester, N. Y., July 24 (A.P.).—Daniel R. Clark, former secretary of the Eastman Kodak Company, who died last December, left a gross estate appraised at $2,269,661.

Mrs. Helen R. Clark, the widow, and two daughters are the principal beneficiaries. Mrs. Gertrude R. Farnham, cousin, of Great Neck, L. I., receives $56,375 and her three daughters each receive $46,475. Walter F. and Arthur C. Richardson, nephews, of Salem, Mass., each receive $13,775.

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR SESQUI BAY STATE DAY

Chairman A. C. Ratshesky, chairman of the Massachusetts Day Sesquicentennial Committee today named 100 prominent citizens of the State, including men in public office and newspaper editors, to be members of the committee. September 27 has been officially set as Massachusetts Day at the Philadelphia exposition.

COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Society Plans Horse Show at Cohasset Next Month

THERE'S A VERY LIVELY INTEREST IN COHASSET'S Horse Show, August 20, the first of a decade in that smart community. It's to be staged in the ring of a clever young equestrienne, Miss Jessie Bancroft, the ring built for her a year or so ago on the estate of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bancroft.

GENERAL BANCROFT, as chairman of the show committee, has for associates his daughter, Miss Jessie Bancroft, Mrs. William B. Gagnebin, Mrs. Arthur M. Millikin, Miss Muriel Crocker, Mrs. Edith T. Baldwin and Mrs. Andrew Whiting.

MESSRS. CLIFFORD F. FARRINGTON, Lyneham Crocker, William B. Gagnebin and Clark Whiting are the masculine portion of the committee. George S. Mandell (he is Mrs. Gagnebin's father) and "Sam" Shaw are elected to the judgeships, posts they are most admirably suited to fill.

ENTRIES FOR ALL the classes—saddle, ponies, the children's events and the jumping—close with Mrs. Gagnebin on August 9. There will be trophies in every class, some twenty odd, donated by prominent Cohasset people.

AS RING MASTER they've secured J. F. Cunniff of the Black Rock Riding School. All the twenty classes are open, except one class in which Cohasset riders alone will appear. So there's sport and to fill.

BOXES AND PARKING reservations are in the capable hands of Miss Bancroft, who, with Mrs. Gagnebin, is at the forefront in arranging details. The George H. Healy Post of the American Legion benefits, and for military color there'll be a band of marines from South Hingham.

COHASSET PROMISES to do herself proud in this horse show revival, to stage a lively show and add a pretty penny to Legion funds. The Bancroft estate, up on a hillside overlooking the ocean, is an ideal site.

THE COHASSET YACHTING set is very much in the limelight. Those intrepid young sailorwomen, Miss Ruth and Miss Esther Sears, daughters in the Dr. George G. Sears family, are preparing to defend their women's championship in the coming races.

WOMEN'S CREWS COME from all about for this interesting contest, the date not yet set, but to be some time later in the season. Miss Esther Sears's 17-foot knockabout is named the Picaroon, while Miss Ruth Sears's 17-footer is the Solitaire.

ONE OF THE HANDSOMEST craft of the whole Cohasset fleet is the Hourless, Commodore Clarence W. Barron's 80-foot motor cruiser. The Fly, a knockabout, and the Jane, a power cruiser, also belong to the Commodore.

A BARRON GIFT to the club is a beautiful copper model of Admiral Sir Francis Drake's ship, "The Golden Hind," atop the club as a weathervane. In bronze and gold, it comes from the hand of Harold Wylie, English marine architest, artist and yachtsman, and is a handsome ornament to the cheery clubhouse.

TODAY'S RACING at Cohasset is the regular Saturday schedule, the 21-footers, the 17-footers and the 12-footers. Theodora L. Badge.., Arthur Lyman, T. Nelson Perkins, Jr., Miss Barbara Bremer, Thomas Williams, Miss Jane Bancroft, Charles Higginson, John A. Knowles, and Charles Francis Adams, Jr., are some of the skippers in these classes.

IN THE LATE JULY exodus to Europe, the steamship Paris of the French line takes from Boston Miss Evelyn R. Sturgis of Beacon street and "Rookwood," Manchester, and Miss Margaret Codman, her cousin. They go over for general traveling and return this way with the Autumn.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES GORDON McNEIL also sail for a European journey via the steamship Paris. Richard Pigeon, amateur yachtsman, is a passenger Europe bound on the same palatial liner.

STANLEY KING is away today on the steamship Conte Biancamano, the "White Count" sailing for Mediterranean ports. She also has aboard a Providence party, including Miss Louise Seaman, Mrs. Arthur Allen and Arthur M. Allen.

NEWPORT'S WEEK-END GAYETY includes the William Woodward dinner, at "The Cloisters," last evening and Miss Frances Minturn Hall's Embassy Club luncheon today before the Army Relief Garden Party at Fort Adams.

THE JEROME NAPOLEON BONAPARTES have two functions for the week-end, a dinner tonight at their place, "The Bandbox," and a luncheon tomorrow. Mrs. Frank Adair of New York is the Bonaparte house guest.

WOMAN, 80, ON 18TH VOYAGE; SEA DOG ON 1ST

An eighty-year-old woman making her eighteenth trip abroad, and a retired sea captain who has followed the sea for fifty-two years and is now crossing the Atlantic for the first time, were among 110 passengers who embarked for Liverpool on the Winifredian today. Mrs. H. M. Bean of South Natick enjoys the distinction of the unusual number of crossings, while Captain Arthur E. Wingfield of Rockland, Me., is making his first trip abroad. Twenty men from Harvard, Princeton and Yale have buried the hatchet for the time, and will unite in working their passage over by valeting 500 head of cattle.

MAN AND BOY HURT WHEN AUTOS CRASH AT CORNER

Max Tuton, twenty-seven, of Princeton street, East Boston, and his companion, Clark Bennett, thirteen, of Falcon street, were injured when Tuton's automobile collided with a sedan, operated by Anthony Difoura of Princeton street in East Boston today.

The cars crashed at Putnam and Princeton streets. Both Tuton and Bennett were taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital, where they were treated for numerous contusions and abrasions of the face and body.

BICYCLE DEALER IS OLD-TIMERS' CHIEF

Concord, N. H., July 24 (A.P.).—F. E. Gale, a bicycle dealer, has been elected president of the Old-Timers' Club of America and awarded a silver loving cup as the oldest dealer continuously in the bicycle business in this country. Mr. Gale started in the retail business in 1880.

Dies in South

Leominster, July 24 (A.P.).—News was received here today of the death in Asheville, N. C., of Alexander S. Caton, 72, of this city. He was founder of the Viscoloid Company and its president until five years ago. Mr. Caton had served four years in the State Legislature and was a former selectman.

DEMOCRATS TO MAKE TARIFF BIG ISSUE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
(International News Service Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, July 24.—Tariff reform and "clean elections."

These are the primary issues upon which the Democrats will strive to wrest control of Congress from the Republicans in the November elections, it was announced today by the Democratic National Committee.

With the tariff issue is linked up that of adequate relief for the farmer. With the "clean elections" issue is linked up the Pennsylvania primary, where nearly $3,000,000 was spent, and where the successful Republican senatorial nominee, W. S. Vare, spent approximately $800,000.

AFTER VARE'S SCALP.

"Every nominee for United States Senator this year should be asked to state publicly before the November election whether, in the event Vare succeeds at the polls, he would vote to seat him or any other man for whom an unconscionable campaign fund was employed," said a statement issued by the Democratic committee.

Both Senator Lenroot and his Republican opponent, Gov. Blaine, in Wisconsin, already are on record as saying they would vote to oust Vare if elected. The Democrats hope to obtain similar action in other States, so that Vare virtually will be beaten before he takes his seat.

TARIFF FIRST ISSUE.

The tariff is the first issue," said the committee's announcement, largely because the Republicans by their record in the recent Congress on farm relief and by their use of funds by over-protected manufacturers for the corruption of elections, have made it so.

Any real and lasting farm relief must come through tariff reform. That is the most certain and effective way of removing the discrimination that farmers now suffer in having to sell in a world-price market and to buy in a highly protected market."

SECRETARY DAVIS PAYS TRIBUTE TO KNOX

Thomaston, Me., July 24 (A.P.).—"Henry Knox, patriot soldier, pioneer statesman and industrial leader, a noble life, possibly too little stressed in American history."

This is how Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis today prefaced his tribute to Washington's chief of artillery and first Secretary of War, at a celebration of his 176th birthday by the Knox Memorial Association.

Mr. Davis pictured him as a Boston bookseller, an obscure figure just prior to the Revolution, who when the solemn crisis came unequivocally threw his wholesouled efforts on the side of the patriot cause, notwithstanding the fact that his bride was a member of a prominent royist family.

WARN LINER PASSENGERS OF "GREATEST GAMBLER"

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Travelers departing on the liner Paris today had as their fellow passenger "one of the greatest gamblers on the Atlantic." Young women passengers were especially warned by detectives before the ship sailed.

It was said the gambler, a dark, good-looking man who dances "beautifully," speaks four languages and poses as a major, specializes in "teaching" young women on board ships to play cards. He permits his pupils to win from him, detectives said, and thus lures their brothers and fathers.

POLICE CHIEF FATALLY INJURED IN CRASH

Toledo, O., July 24 (I.N.S.)—Traveling at a rate of fifty miles an hour, an automobile containing Chief of Police C. E. Harvey of Hooverville, Pa., and two other Hooverville residents, plunged down a railroad embankment here early today and turned over several times, probably fatally injuring all three occupants. Chief Harvey received a fractured skull.

U. S. DEFENDED BY FOREIGN PAPERS

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—The United States is obtaining voluntary defense from abroad to charges that it is a shylock.

Following closely upon the declaration by Il Tevere, of Rome, organ of the extreme Fascists, that the United States because of its insistence on the payment of war debts is "sowing to the right and the left hatred and a desire for vengeance," several of the London weekly reviews of liberal tendencies and the English language papers of Buenos Aires deprecate all recent attacks upon the United States, both in the British Parliament and the English newspapers.

ATTACK ON THE NATION.

The isolated hostile demonstrations against the Americans in Paris by certain elements of the population, angered because of the fall in the value of the franc and hostile to the Franco-American debt agreement, are characterized by the Standard of Buenos Aires as "tantamount to attacking the great nation to which they belong."

The London Economist thinks the attitude of the United States will not be improved by irritating comment from Europe.

The Nation protests against abusing America as a "Shylock." It charges that the British government itself has driven a hard bargain with France by taking advantage of that country's present need for foreign credits.

NO REASON TO CHANGE.

The New Statesman believes there is no reason whatever why the United States should change its financial policy and declares that "the dream of getting a favorable debt revision is to ask for the moon."

According to the British-controlled Herald of Buenos Aires, attempts are being made to have the United States appear in the French financial crisis as "a nefarious Shylock." It adds that France has not attempted to pay Shylock.

British Papers Speculate on Morgan in England

London, July 24 I.N.S.)—While J. P. Morgan is enjoying a quiet vacation in the English countryside, the British press conjectures concerning his presence here.

Morgan, himself, declares persistently that he is here only on a vacation, but the British press is as persistent in declaring that "it is believed" that Morgan will engage in conferences here which will have a vital effect upon the French financial situation.

The newspapers declare that Morgan and Secretary Mellon held conversations on board the Majestic.

Careful inquiry in financial circles indicates that there is no basis at present for any conjectures that Morgan's visit here is part of a general plan for American aid to France.

Cabinet Expected to Win Chamber Support

Paris, July 24.—The Poincare Cabinet is today striving to evolve a financial program which it can take before the Chamber of Deputies next week with reasonable assurances of success.

Until the financial program is outlined none can say how strong the Poincare Cabinet will prove, but it is general opinion in political circles that the Cabinet, under the leadership of the cautious Poincare will bring forth a program which will at least win initial support from the Chamber.

The problem of the American debt settlement remains more or less of an unsettled question. M. Poincare strongly opposed the Mellon-Berenger accord, but as premier he may not be able to carry his opposition to as great lengths as he did when out of the cabinet.

"RIVER OF DOUBT" TO BE EXPLORED AGAIN

New York, July 24 (I.N.S.).—All uncertainity may be removed from the "River of Doubt," discovered by Theodore Roosevelt in 1914, by a party of explorers who left today for South America on the S. S. Van Dyke.

The expedition headed by George M. Dyott will make a two-year trip up the river which is now named the Rio Theodore.

Americans Hated in France, Says Farnum

In the piping times of peace France has opened wide her arms to Germany and spurned her World War ally, America.

That, in a sentence, is the gist of the situation in France, with respect to the crisis precipitated through the war debt debacle, as seen through the eyes of Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. George R. Farnum of Melrose, who has just returned to his desk in the Federal Building after a two months' sojourn on the Continent.

"Among a substantial number of French natives, of every class, there is outspoken antagonism towards Americans," Mr. arnum told the Boston Evening American today, "and in every respect German tourists are more cordially received and more generously treated than their fellow-trippers from the United States."

AMERICANS SHYLOCKS.

The impression gleaned by Mr. Farnum, from intimate contact with the French natives, convinced him that America and Americans have become, in the French mind, Shylocks seeking their "pound of flesh" with their deadly grip on the throat of France.

"The French press," Mr. Farnum declared, "is filled with misleading news of the war debt situation and the leading editorials are a mass of inflammatory propaganda, tending to incite the populace against United States.

"On the streets of Paris the French gamin can think of no more insulting epithet to hurl at passing American tourists than 'Dollars,' and even in the leading theatres the most heartily applauded acts are those in which American foibles and follies are held up to satire.

WANT AMERICAN CASH.

"At most of the first-class hotels in Paris Americans are requested to pay their bills in American money. If they refuse to comply, the latest quotations from the Paris Bourse are produced and the tourist must pay according to the current rate of exchange.

"Despite the panic brought about by the falling franc, the French are assiduously bent on an orgy of spending, with fine clothes in evidence on every boulevard and with poverty apparently non-existent."

In marked contrast to the popular unrest and inter-racial bitterness in France, Mr. Farnum described the universal contentment and stabilization of Italy.

STRONG HAND NEEDED.

He predicted the need in the immediate future of a strong hand similar to that of Mussolini, to lift France out of the depths of her present financial slough, but, at the same time, expressed doubt about the extremes to which the Italian Duce might go.

Adverting to the charge recently laid against the ships of the United States Line that they were as "wet" as those under foreign flags, Mr. Farnum, a passenger on the President Harding, declared that steamship rigidly observed the Volstead Act.

"I saw no drinking done on the President Harding," he said, "neither on the way over or on the way back.

"It is to be supposed that many passengers bought wines and liquors at Cherbourg and took them aboard, but in no public place on the ship were there any signs of the contraband nor were any passengers seen to be under the influence of liquor."

Mr. Farnum was accompanied by his wife, formerly Miss Ida Demers of Springfield, a graduate of the Sorbonne in Paris.

U.S. PROTEST ON FRENCH RIOTS

The anti-American feeling is apparently growing and it is being fanned by a number of newspapers, which are publishing bitter articles denouncing the American tourists.

Previously these demonstrations have been attributed to rowdies, but last night's demonstrations were carried out by well-dressed Frenchmen, and there were indications that there might be some organization and that the demonstrations were not spontaneous.

Fortunately the temper of the tourists thus far has been good-natured, probably because they do not understand most of the jeers addressed to them, but unless some action is taken by the police there may occur a serious clash.

Sees America as Only Winner in Great War

Rome, July 24 (A.P.).—Continuing its attack on the United States, the extreme Fascist newspaper Il Tevere today declares the American attitude on the war debts questions amounts to a financial war upon Europe.

"If Europe can resist for sixty-two years (the length of the debt payments), she will have won," the paper says. "She will emerge exhausted, but whole."

On the other hand, if Europe cannot hold out, the paper says, the debtor nations will be forced to exchange their colonial possessions for the debt obligations.

"Thus," it continues, "the great war begun in 1914 will finish finally with the United States the victor over both the winners and losers.

"Then peace—an American peace—will reign over the world."

PASSENGER AIR SERVICE PLANNED BY COMPANIES

Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—Both the National Air Transport, Inc., and the Ford Motor Company are ambitious to put airplanes in passenger, mail and express service on a number of routes in the United States, said a statement from the former company today.

The eight-passenger plane recently ordered by the National Air Transport from the Ford interests for experimental purposes has not yet been delivered.

GERMANY COOL TO POINCARE

Berlin, July 24 (I.N.S.).—The eagerness of the German government to enter the League of Nations has noticeably slackened owing to the succession to power of former President Raymond Poincare, it was learned from high givernment officials.

It was pointed out Germany's entrance to the League was out of the question unless military control of the Rhineland and indirectly of the country generally, was entirely abolished.

The government is inclined to consider the allied demand for the reorganiaztion of the Reichswehr and for the replacement of General Von Seeckt, commander of the Reichswehr, an infringement of German sovereignty.

It was felt here these "infringements," the product of a relatively moderate French regime, would be aggravated under Poincare, who ordered the invasion of the Ruhr and who generally is noted for his militaristic creed.

Paris Expects Mellon to Talk Finance

Paris, July 24 (A.P.).—Andrew W. Mellon, American Secretary of the Treasury, in France avowedly for a vacation, had not yet arrived in Paris late this afternoon.

He landed from the liner Majestic at Cherbourg yesterday, and it is learned that he spent the day at Dinard, fashionable bathing resort in Brittany.

L'Humanite, Communist organ, printing the news of Mr. Mellon's arrival in this morning's edition, used the caption, "Emperor Mellon in France."

Theodore Rousseau of the Guaranty Trust Company, the secretary's traveling companion, speaking for him over the telephone from Dinard this afternoon, said:

PROBE MEXICAN LEADERS OF BOYCOTT

Mexico City, July 24 (A.P.).—Attorney-General Ortega has sent to the First District Court a citation ordering an investigation into the activities of the three leaders of the National League for Defense of Religious Liberty who were taken into custody and held by the authorities when the league's headquarters was raided Thursday.

The men under arrest are Rafael Ceniceros Villareal, Rene Capitetran Garza and Luis Busto. They are alleged to have signed a recent appeal for "an economic boycott" in opposition to the new regulations.

The Mexican government is going ahead with its program of putting into effect its new religious regulations at midnight Saturday, July 31. There has been no suggestion of any modification by the government of its program.

RULES FOR SCHOOLS.

President Calles has proclaimed the supplementary regulations giving effect to the constitutional prohibition of religious teaching in private schools. These prescribe that no minister of any religious cult may act as director or teacher in private schools. They also place a ban on chapels, religious pictures, images and other objects of a religious nature in such schools.

Meanwhile the religious situation is becoming more tense. Catholic circles here have been greatly stirred by the closing of the headquarters of the National League for Defense of Religious Liberty and the arrest of the leaders of the organization.

CATHEDRAL OVERCROWDED.

Enormous crowds continue daily to invade the churches to worship or to have children confirmed or baptized, being fearful that on August 1 all church functions will cease.

The great Cathedral here has proved inadequate to hold the crowds which daily have been flocking there. More than 3,000 children were confirmed there yesterday and there also were many baptisms. Hundreds of mothers were unable to gain entrance with their babies.

Despite his advanced years, the Most Rev. Jose Mora y Del Rio, archbishop of Mexico City, announces that until the new regulations become effective, he will preside daily for as many hours as his strength will permit to confirm children.

REAL BEAUTY IN FINE FLOOR

By JAMES B. LORD,
President, Boston Varnish Company —Kyanize

Quite properly a great deal of attention has of late been focussed on the subject of floors and their importance in the decorative scheme of the home.

Many of the leading decorators have arrived at the point where the floor is the bedrock upon which they build the balance of their decorative scheme for the room.

It is perfectly fitting and proper that they should do this because with the floor out of keeping the general decorative effect is completely spoiled.

Formerly it was enough to simply finish the floor in a manner that would be durable and fairly attractive and little thought was given to its importance in making or marring the final decorative effect. Much depends, of course, in arriving at a satisfactory solution of this problem, on the type of floor installed.

Hardwoods are usually enough in themselves when properly chosen with respect to the grain and character of the wood itself. The parquet floor with woods of contrasting grain and texture can be assembled in varied and beautiful designs.

HARDWOODS BEAUTIFUL.

The more difficult problem is that of developing beauty where the floor is of soft wood and often of a monotonous character.

For the hardwood floor the proper finish which is at once most satisfactory and durable is procured with varnish.

Certain varnishes now on the market offer a wide choice in colorings albeit these colorings are of a transparent character allowing the attractive grain of the wood to be in evidence. Such varnishes, too, can be counted on for the ultimate in durability, resisting not only abrasion, but the action of acids and active agents in cleansing preparations.

To develop a decorative scheme in a hardwood floor which is composed entirely of one kind of wood is not difficult with varnishes when contrasting colors are selected. A border treatment can be developed whereby a clear varnish may be used in combination with a darker colored varnish and when used on alternate boards entirely around the room a striped effect is easily produced. Mahogany and the natural varnish alternated, for instance, make for a very happy combination.

SOFT WOOD PROBLEM SOLVED.

On the soft wood floor a product of the nature of Kyanize Floor Enamel opens the way for a very satisfactory solution to this vexing problem. This floor enamel is solid in color, opaque, and can be counted on to cover or hide any blemishes or stains that time may have wrought on the surface.

Here, too, the soft wood floor can be not only durably but beautifully finished with a decorative thought in mind. For instance, a floor enamel may be selected in two or three contrasting or harmonious shades. A stripe of one color on the outside, just the width of a board, followed on the succeeding day with a stripe of another color adjoining it and running around the room, and possibly a third color for the center of the floor, makes for a very attractive combination.

WAX FINISH EFFECTIVE.

Again, too, in the case of linoleum floor coverings and for hardwood floors as well, a wax finish is gaining in popularity. When cared for intelligently a wax finish is decidedly beautiful. It is exceedingly easy to apply, especially with a product like the celebrated Kyanize Prepared Wax. If constantly kept up a wax finish, with its soft, velvety lustre, is delightfully effective. Of course, when using wax a monotone effect only is possible. Combinations of colors must be made on the wood itself and then, if desired, a wax finish can be applied over either the varnish or the floor itself.

The main thing to consider is that the floor offers possibilities for decorative treatment that have for a long time been neglected. Now thought can be given to combining the decorative treatment on the floor with that which is to follow on walls, woodwork and furnishings. The result is well worth the effect and thought devoted to it.

FINE FITTINGS CHEAPEST IN THE END

By E. G. CHISHOLM,
Of the E. G. Chisholm Company, Cambridge.

In no department of human betterment has greater progress been made than in the bathroom and bathroom accessories.

A whole industry, vastly ramified, has grown to colossal size during our own hygenic period manufacturing fittings and appointments of comfort, utility and luxury for the bathroom.

Among early tribes a stream served for personal sanitation. Later among the classical ancients, the bath became a famous institution, luxurious beyond compare but confined, however, mainly to the nobles and the weather.

In the United States, in our day, the bath is the daily habit of everyone and the bathroom, even when its cost is low, rivals the sybaritic luxury of the massive Roman baths of marble.

UP TO DATE BATHS.

We do not have slaves and anoint with oils, but rare indeed is the home without the bathroom, its clean, cool porcelain and tile and its unending supply of hot and cold water from faucet and shower.

The greatest advance that we have seen in our day is in the appointments of the bathroom.

Cabinets, mirrors, medicine cases in shining white, towel bars and racks and towel shelves, crystal and glass shelves, razor strop and robe hooks, special tumblers and tumbler and tooth brushes' holders, soap holders of varying kinds, and an imposing array of other accessories of utility and beauty practically without end are part and parcel of the bathroom. And each is made in an endless variety of forms and materials peculiarly suited for its special mission.

QUALITY IS COMFORT.

The use of fine fixtures is wise when fitting out this room so important in the family hygiene.

It is wise principally because the whole cost of fine fixtures is the first cost. They last and seldom require replacing while accessories of lesser merit must needs be often reinstalled.

And it is wise, too, because fine fittings measurably increase the comfort of the daily bath.

The E. G. Chisholm Company manufactures the latest improved bathroom fittings for long and durable use. All its output is gleaming white, the hallmark of the perfect bathroom. The finely enameled surface of its line of accessories does not chip or crack and lasts through years of use.

One specialty of the company is the All-Steel Medicine Cabinet.

HAVE REAL VALUE.

These medicine cabinets are built of the finest grade of furniture steel, electrically welded together and finished in the highest grade of white enamel baked into the steel by a special process developed through many years experience in finishing All-Steel Kitchen Cabinets.

All models are furnished with the finest French plate mirrors, crystal glass door pulls, nickel plated friction spring brass door catches, and extra strong heavy steel hinges finished to prevent rust.

Dollar-for-dollar there is no greater value than All-Steel Medicine Cabinets.

GOOD PLUMBING UPKEEP LOW

The dollars you spend for your plumbing and fixtures represent a first cost.

If your plumbing is well installed and your fixtures and system of quality standard materials, your plumbing should be permanent, your upkeep cost low. Leaks, breaks, and "freeze-ups" are preventable if, when your home is built, the plumbing is properly installed.

Just because most of your plumbing is covered by walls and floors is no reason why you should underestimate the importance of the plumbing work. The fact is you need to know some of the main things about plumbing—what to expect from it, what kind of fixtures to install, their respective merit and service, if you hope to spend your dollars wisely.

There are two important things about plumbing to be sure of. First, that your fixtures and system are quality materials. Second, that the work of installing them is done by first-class plumbers.

Grease is one of the things which require traps being cleaned more often than otherwise. Grease in soap flows through the pipes and when chilled is deposited on the sides of the pipes. Dirt added to grease, produce an obstruction. Sinks back up and require flushing. Grease generally is the primary cause.

Kitchen sinks can be provided grease and take it from the water before it reaches the cool pipe to grow hard and obstruct the easy emptying of the plumbing system.

Your plumbing system should be provided with cleanouts, located conveniently, where flexible rods or wires can be used to remove obstructions if they occur. Cleanouts should be absolutely tight. They are just as much a part of your system as the stack and fixtures.

To avoid "freeze-ups" don't run pipes within an outside wall. If the location of your bathroof is on an outside wall and it becomes necessary to run pipes "next to the weather," use some good standard anti-freeze pipe covering. Be sure that all short bends and angles are eliminated.

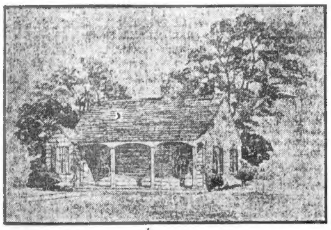
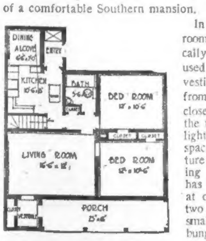
A Bungalow for Seashore, Town or Country



This charming four room bungalow makes an ideal dwelling either for the vacation months or for the year 'round. The large gracefully arched porch under the curved sweep of the broad roof expanse is a reminder of the beautiful verandahs of a comfortable Southern mansion.



In the arrangement of the rooms of this house practically every inch of space is used to advantage. In the vestibule which is entered from the porch is a large closet. The living room and the two bed rooms are well lighted and have ample wall space for convenient furniture arrangements. The dining alcove off the kitchen has two large windows and at one end of it there are two small china closets. The small family will find this bungalow an ideal home.

This house has been designed by William J. L. Roop, Engineer-Builder. Plans and information regarding it may be obtained by addressing his office, 294 Washington St., Boston.

Don't Strike Him, Victor!

Victor Hyde still follows his copy-book maxims. While rehearsing his new "Summertime Girl Revue" at Loew's State this past warm week, a bothersome visitor vouchsafed the bromide that the show was "timely." "Vic" turned on him with "Yes, we believe in striking while the weather's hot."

STAGE AND SCREEN

Turning the Other Cheek!

Found! The most disappointed man in the world. Namely, the practical joker who tried to "get a rise" out of Organist Del Castillo at the Metropolitan with the gentle intimation that his solo work was the bunk. "You said it!" Del Castillo grinned back at him, "that's my new number—'It's The Bunk.'"

IT'S THE BUNK!

ASCENDING MERCURY DOES LITTLE DAMAGE TO CURRENT ATTRACTIONS IN DRAMA

PERILS OF THE DEEP. Bebe Daniels and Armand Cortez take a spin across the bay in a speed boat in "The Palm Beach Girl" (Metropolitan). But something goes wrong with the thing-a-ma-jig and they drift helplessly until the next scene.

MILDRED LIVINGSTON headlines the vaudeville bill at Loew's Orpheum for the week and, with her gay companions, will flit through the fluff and flutter of a miniature revue.

SPOTLIGHT STUFF with Charles Purcell and Helen Ford, the cordial contestants in "Dearest Enemy"—the melodious concoction of red coats, white wigs, black lace and mixed drinks at the Tremont. A charming pair!

A KISS FOR CINDERELLA. Alec Francis salutes his lady of the dainty slipper—Dolores Del Rio—in "Pals First" at the Olympia. But it's a different kind of a Cinderella story, and a number of startling things occur during the merry masquerade.

RENOVATIONS AT SHUBERT THEATRES

The general notion of theatre-goers is that the manager of a theatre has a "soft snap" in the Summertime—that his theatre closes down about the first of June and, until the middle of August he has nothing to do but swimming, fishing, yachting, auto touring, golfing or studying the prohibition situation in Canada.

Edwin Fuller

Denial of this roseate Summer life of the manager is readily obtained from Edwin W. Fuller, manager of the Shubert interests in Boston, the Shubert, Wilbur, Plymouth and Majestic theatres and the Boston Opera House.

As soon as the Plymouth had closed its season with "Merry Merry," a small army of interior decorators was brought in to make a complete transformation in the color scheme and decorative design of the entire house, and Mr. Fuller promises that when patrons step into this theatre for the opening night of the new season they will find virtually a new Plymouth. The somber colors of the side walls and ceilings are being replaced by an ivory gray with stripings to match, while the electric lighting fixtures that were formerly in old gold will appear in white gold.

In the Wilbur Theatre there will be extensive re-painting in such parts as could not be done last summer during the short period that the theatre remained closed, but the same tone of Colonial grey will be retained.

Across Tremont street at the Shubert the chairs are all out preparatory to laying a new system of flooring to meet the requirements of an elaborate system of new carpeting. There will be considerable re-decoration at the Shubert, also, especially on the proscenium arch and boxes.

Down at the Majestic Theatre, which was entirely re-decorated last season, minor adornments will be made, but here also there will be an extensive replenishment in the matter of carpeting.

The opening dates at these various theatres will be announced later.

"THE SHOW-OFF" IN FILMS

When "The Show-Off," George Kelly's play, opened on Broadway, C. W. Goodrich held down the important role of "Pa Fisher." And when Paramount officials were casting about for a man to play this part in the motion picture version, which will be shown soon at the Metropolitan, their eyes fell on Goodrich. He was signed. This is one of the few instances in which a man plays the same role both on the stage and in the picture version. "Th Show-Off" is directed by Malcolm St. Clair and has in its cast Ford Sterling, Lois Wilson, Louise Brooks and Claire McDowell.

Shuberts Announce First Play for New Season

The Messrs. Shubert will open their Boston season early in August with a new play, "My Country," by William J. Perlman. The Hub engagement will immediately follow the play's premiere in Atlantic City and will precede the New York showing, where it is scheduled for a long run. It is a comedy-drama of a cross section of American life and the author has set his locale in a metropolitan neighborhood inhabited by a mixture of all nationalities and creeds. Americanization is the theme.

First Run Films AND WHERE You'll Find 'Em

"The Palm Beach Girl" at the Metropolitan. Adapted from the story of Byron Morgan. Bebe Daniels and Laurence Gray are featured. Eric Kenton directed. A Paramount picture.

"Pals First" at the Washington Street Olympia. Adapted from the play by Leo Wilson Dodd. Delores Del Rio and Lloyd Hughes are featured. Edwin Carewe directed. A First National Picture.

"The Boob" at Loew's State. Adapted from the story by George Scarborough and Annette Westbay. Gertrude Olmstead and George K. Arthur are featured. William A. Wellman directed. A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture.

COPLEY GIVES ANOTHER NEW PLAY

"On the Hiring Line," another play new to Boston, will be given at the Copley Theatre next week. This is the comedy, written by Harriet Ford and Harvey O'Higgins, which was given recently in New York.

The story of "On the Hiring Line," briefly, is that the Fessendens are living in the country. Mrs. Fessenden doesn't like it and literally drives all servants away, forcing her husband and stepdaughter to do the housework. Mr. Fessenden's ire is aroused and he swears he will get servants that will "stick." He proceeds to hire help, such as it is, and therein lies the basis for the comedy which permeates the play.

The piece is said to have a number of very fine roles, each affording an excellent opportunity to the members of the Copley Players to display their ability. The cast includes C. Wordley Hulse, May Ediss, Edmund George, Katherine Standing, Alan Mowbrey, Ruth Lyons, Victor Tandy, Elspeth Dudgeon and Norman Cannon.

VARIETY and PICTURES

SCOLLAY SQUARE—Richard Dix and Chester Conklin in "Say It Again." Also vaudeville.

BOWDOIN SQUARE—Film Revival Week at this house with a different feature each day. Monday, "Dream Street"; Tuesday, "The Three Musketeers"; Wednesday, "Pollyanna"; Thursday, "Orphans of the Storm"; Friday, "A Woman of Paris"; Saturday, "The Mark of Zorro." Also a bill of vaudeville.

BEACON—"The Social Highwayman," with John Patrick and Dorothy Devore. Also "Out of the Storm," with Jacqueline Logan.

NORUMBEGA PARK—Pictures and vaudeville in the open air theatre; free outdoor circus; also midway attractions.

Scollay Square Takes on Many Improvements

In addition to installing the latest in cooling plants and similar aids to entertainment, the Scollay Square Olympia has also provided a brand new $75,000 Wurlitzer pipe organ and all that goes with it. Further, they have succeeded in obtaining the services of Arthur J. Martel, noted among movie organists, to properly "break in" this new and improved assortment of pipes, reeds, bells and whistles. Starting Monday, Mr. Martel will enter on a brief engagement before beginning a tour of other big picture houses.

GREEK MEETS GREEK AND ALL'S WELL

One way of getting permission to use a house for a motion picture in Florida:

Look at the house admiringly. (It's really worth admiring—canal in back—palms hanging their long branches here and there—brilliant red flowers dotting the rich green foliage—birds singing.)

A snappy individual in white flannel trousers, light gray coat and straw hat approaches.

"Like the place?" he asks.

"Yes, it's great," he is assured, "it would be just the setting for Bebe Daniels' new comedy, 'The Palm Beach Girl,' which she's making down here now."

"I turned down an offer of $150,000 for that house last week," the owner informs his audience with a contented smile.

"Say," the advance movie diplomat observes, "if that house was used in this picture everybody in the country will see it. It ought to sell for at least a million."

"Great! Start right in now—any time— and don't forget the name of the town—Cocoanut Grove. Here's my card. Any time you boys want to make some real dough, drop in at my office."

"The Palm Beach Girl" starts at the Metropolitan today.

CHANGES in VAUDEVILLE

LOEW'S ORPHEUM—Mildred Livingston, assisted by Billy Hutchinson and the Loredo Sisters in a song and dance revue, 'Cinderbella"; Pisano and Landuer in a character dialect skit entitled, "Boom-Boom"; Hanson and Burton Sisters in a novelty act, "Magic Men And The Magical Maids"; Cooper and Lacey in "Tunes And Steps," and others.

B. F. KEITH'S—Ida May Chadwick, eccentric comedienne, with her "Six Dizzy Blondes" in their act called, "Six Reasons for a Gentleman's Preference"; Adler, Weil and Herman in their act, "California Humming Birds"; Paul Yocan and Company in a dance act called, "Artistic Moments"; Meehan's Canines, and others.

It Is Always Easier After the First Cold Plunge

Lloyd Hughes, featured with Dolores Del Rio in "Pals First" at the Washington Street Olympia, states that his first day in the movies came close to being his last as well. Hughes has haunted the "extra" lines for a weary while, and finally got a "bit" in a colonial film in which he had to dawdle about in very greatly befrilled and bedecked panties, much to his annoyance. Later in the day he had to loiter about in the chilling waters of a small lake, with little else for meditation than the cheering presentment of the bad cold that was certain to follow.

FILM FOR POPE

A special motion picture print, with titles in Italian, showing the Eucharistic Congress held recently in Chicago, will be presented to the Pope, it has been announced by the Fox Film Corporation. Official prints were made also for Cardinal [illegible]

Winsome Winner

FLORENCE JOHNSON—selected as "The Summertime Girl" and the star of Victor Hyde's same named revue to be presented next week at Loew's State.

Excursion Trip to Lake Sunapee Tomorrow

Adding to the list of Summer resorts to which it has run excursions, the Boston and Maine Railroad offers tomorrow a popular-priced trip by rail to beautiful Lake Sunapee. Nestling among the hills of Sullivan and Merrimack counties, Lake Sunapee—New Hampshire's third largest lake—is an ideal spot for recreation. Eleven hundred feet above sea level; dotted with picturesque islands; surrounded by cliffs, glens and ridges of wild grandeur, Sunapee presents unusual opportunities for the lover of nature.

"America" Gives Last Show Tonight at Ball Park

The final performance of the big Shrine spectacle and circus, "America," will be given tonight at Braves Field. This production, with its 40 "big time" vaudeville and circus acts and its 1,000 performers, has been showing in Boston for the past few weeks and the last opportunity to witness it will be this evening. As an added attraction to its closing the Aleppo Shrine Band of 300 pieces, including the famous Drum Corps will be on hand and render one of its popular concerts. Nothing will be eliminated from this performance.

Looking Ahead

JULY 31—
Clara Bow and Ernest Torrence in "Mantrap" at the Metropolitan.

AUGUST 1—
Viola Dana in "Bigger Than Barnum's" at the Washington Street Olympia.

AUGUST 2—
Jessamine Newcombe in "Meet the Wife" at the Copley.

AUGUST 2—
Fiske O'Hara (personal appearance) at Loew's State.

AUGUST 7—
Ford Sterling and Lois Wilson in "The Show-Off" at the Metropolitan.

HEAT BRINGS BIG CROWDS TO REVERE

The Flying Codonas, who have been entertaining the crowds at Revere Beach for nearly a week with their daring acrobatic feats, will continue as the big free outdoor attraction at "New England's Playground" for today and tomorrow.

The Boston & Maine Railroad will run four special excursion trains tomorrow to Revere from distant points. Two trains will come from New Hampshire and two others from western Massachusetts.

The New Hampshire trains will leave Concord and Dover at 7:20 and 8:45 a. m., Eastern Standard time, respectively, stopping at the principal cities along the routes to pick up excursionists, and arrive at Revere at 9:30 and 11:15 a. m.

The Massachusetts trains will leave North Adams and Worcester at 6:30 and 7:45 a. m., respectively, also picking up passengers along the route, and arriving at the beach at 10:50 and 9:50 a. m.

In anticipation of another record-breaking crowd, the various amusement proprietors have arranged for special features to amuse and entertain the public.

It Pays to Take the Wrong One Down in Florida

In Florida they charge twenty cents a mile for "drive-yourself" cars. It is the cheapest form of transportation. You can get the cars in any city and turn them in at your destination. The cars are all exactly alike.

Bebe Daniels

Bebe Daniels was down there recently during the filming of the exterior scenes of "The Palm Beach Girl" and hired one while she was in Miami. She drove it seventy miles to Palm Beach, entered a hotel, came out and got into what she thought was the same car. When she turned it in a half hour later they told her the bill was three dollars, which would have been approximately the tariff for fifteen miles. Bebe didn't argue about it but she is still wondering what the other fellow said when he turned in the car that had been driven seventy miles.

Raquel Meller Will Play Hub Again in November

The announcement is made by E. Ray Goetz, who presented Raquel Meller here last season, that the Spanish artiste is now traveling in the Catalonian provinces for the purpose of acquiring additional folk-songs. Her object is to take down and learn the street songs and madrigals of Catalonia that have never been written, but handed down by ear from generation to generation after the manner of the bards of old. Senorita Meller will reopen a short season in New York in the middle of October and is scheduled for another Boston appearance early in November.

SALLY O'NEILL A WINNER ON SCREEN

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—With every director up for consideration as a prospect for directing "An American Tragedy," the invitation to film this gloomy drama has been extended to Eric von Stroheim.

Corinne Griffith

WHILE Corinne Griffith is spending her time at the Metropolitan studios finishing "Tin Pan Alley," her husband, Walter Morosco, is getting ready "Business Is Best," for Warners.

And now about this "Business is Best." It is an original story written by Arthur Somers Roche for the screen. When Roche was in Los Angeles he spent his time not only writing, but learning the film business, accompanying the various companies on location and finding out just how the wheels go round.

Sally O'Neill

WITH the proper direction, I see no reason why Sally O'Neill will not forge to the front this coming year and win a reputation for herself as one of our most promising screen actresses. Sally reminds me of Mabel Normand during the days when she was the life of all the best Mack Sennett comedies. There is the same naive charm and the same beauty of face and figure. She is slated for an important role in "The Mysterious Island," the much-discussed Williamson undersea epic which has been a year in production. Conrad Nagel has been cast for the leading male role.

He seems to be one actor on the Metro-Goldwyn Mayer lot who is never idle. He has more jobs than any actor I know. I suppose we might call that the penalty of popularity.

HERE we have Peter B. Kyne again. If there is any more prolific writer I haven't discovered him. This time Mr. Kyne is author of "Breed of the Sea," to be made at F. B. O. studios. Ralph Ince, who was only married last week, will have rather an important part in this picture, inasmuch as he will not only direct it, but play a dual role, which, I should say, would keep him rather busy. Margaret Livingstone and Dorothy Dunbar also have important roles, as well as Pat Harmon. Miss Livingstone was borrowed from Fox for this auspicious event.

AFTER all the groaning and sighing and talk about getting a leading man to play the role of the jockey in "Down the Stretch," I now hear that Robert Agnew gets the job. King Baggot added a little interest to the occasion by explaining how difficult is the life of a director who has to have a leading man, short in stature and with a certain amount of good looks.

This story is the last one written by Gerald Beaumont, and will be put into production immediately.

OPERA STAR TO SING AT ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Henri Ralff, formerly with the Boston Grand Opera Company, will sing in St. Paul's Cathedral, Sunday evening, at 7:30, the aria, "It Is Enough," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah." The Summer choir of men and women will sing several of the great choruses from the same oratorio.

Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, D. D. will preach at the morning service at 11 o'clock on "More Heavens Than One." His subject at the evening service will be "The House of Happiness."

Walter Smith, solo trumpeter of the Boston Festival Orchestra, will lead the out-door sunset service on the porch at 7 o'clock.

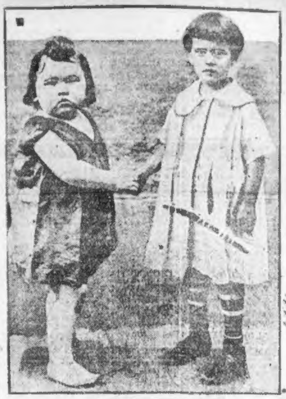
SALEM BABY GIANT, 34 MONTHS OLD, CHALLENGES ALL COMERS



HE TIPS THE SCALES AT 100
George Tetrault, Salem claimant to world's junior giant honors, is only 34 months old and weighs 100 pounds. He is pictured here with Rita Cormier, aged six.

CIRCUS OFFERS REFUSED
Weighing ten pounds at birth, George, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexandre Tetrault of No. 187 Lafayette street, gained 30 pounds the first year.

George can pull a chair occupied by an adult all around the floor. He is demonstrating this stunt in the above photo, his mother, Mrs. Alexandre Tetrault, occupying the chair. Mrs. Tetrault weighs 165 pounds.

ELIOT HOME IS ENTERED

The home of Miss Abigail Eliot, granddaughter of President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot, of Harvard, at No. 21 Francis avenue, Cambridge, was entered by thieves and jewelry and family heirlooms, valued at $2,000, was taken.

Much of the jewelry stolen had been in the family for years and was considered priceless by members.

Included in the loot were a diamond bar pin, valued a $100, a bar pin set with four green stones, a gold brooch set with yellow stone, a pearl bar pin set with four pearls, two fish pearl pins, a chased gold bar pin, a gold locket, a turquoise bracelet, three gold bracelets, a set of gold cuff links, a bar pin set with blue stones, a small cloisonne box, a gold ring set with six or eight small pearls, a string of fish pearls and a small diamond. About $20 in cash also was taken.

SERVICES FOR LAND AGENT OF N. H. IN HUB

Funeral services were held at Cohasset today for Harry G. Whittle, for nine years land agent at Boston for the New Haven system. The services took place in his home on Beechwood street, and were attended by Vice-President Arthur P. Russell and other officials of the railroad.

A veteran railroad man, he began as a brakeman on the old Boston & Lowell road. In 1914 he was made Boston & Maine real estate appraiser. In 1917 he went to the New Haven road to fill the office he held until his death.

He was born at North Chelmsford Aug. 8, 1851, and was a railroad man for more than half a century. Burial was at North Scituate. The pallbearers were Walter Fitzpatrick, the company's land agent at Providence; Owen N. Sandiford, Edgar T. Jenkins, Francis T. McDonald, Leonard O. Wilbur and Walter F. Whitcomb, the five last being Mr. Whittle's associates in the South Station office.

FIRST COP IN SEVEN YEARS "FIRED" IN LYNN

Patrolman Orrin F. Gleason, World War veteran and for seven years a member of the Lynn police force, was discharged today by Mayor Ralph S. Bauer, who declared Gleason "does not understand the responsibility of a bluecoat to the public." Gleason is the first policeman to be dismissed from the Lynn department in seven years. He is 34 and has a wife and two children. He may appeal to the district court. Mayor Bauer's decision comes after a public hearing granted Gleason on charges filed by Police Captain Broad in which it was alleged the patrolman failed to take note of open store windows.

Posse With Dog Hunts Man

Concord, N. H., July 24 (A.P.).—Led by Sheriff George A. Wooster and a police dog scores of volunteers are combing the woods in Epsom for Robert C. Brown, 87, former selectman, who disappeared from his home in Epsom on Thursday noon.

TWO ARRESTED ON BAD CHECK

Miss Adele Fowlie, twenty-five, whose home is said to be in Fredericton, N. B., and Earl H. Newbury, member of a Detroit firm, were arrested today by Inspectors Connolly and Loughlin, charged with larceny of $5,000 by means of a worthless check from the American Fireworks Company.

The couple were arrested on the street on an indictment warrant, and in Municipal Court were held in $1,000 each for a hearing Monday.

According to the police, they contracted a bill of $3,000 with the American Fireworks Company, then purchased $2,000 worth more, giving a check for $5,000, which proved to be worthless.

The girl, who is said to be bookkeeper for the Detroit firm, was represented by Attorney Percy A. Guthrie, who declared that she had made out a check at the behest of her employers, and had no further connection with the case.

MYSTERY WIRE DENIES MARINE DIED IN BLAST

New Britain, Ct., July 24 (A.P.).—Is Paul Moreaux, marine, presumably on duty at the Dover, N. J., military reservation when magazines exployed July 10, dead or alive? His mother, Mrs. Augustine Moreaux of this city, does not know. Two days after the explosion she received a telegram from Atlantic City, signed "Paul," telling her he was safe, to disregard reports of his death and promising to write. No word has come from him and the marine's name remains on the list of missing.

Dr. E. D. Robbins Dead

Nashua, N. H., July 24 (A.P.).—Dr. Edwin D. Robbins, practicing physician here since 1900, dropped dead at his lodging place today. He was a native of Mason, N. H., and was 67 years old.

Light Magnate Drops Dead

Pittsburgh, July 24.—James M. Graves, vice-president and general manager of the Duquesne Light Co., here, dropped dead of apoplexy.

BALLOT BOXES ARE STOLEN

Austin, Tex., July 24.—Officials prepared to prevent irregularities at the polls in Texas' primaries today following disclosure of the removal of Republican ballot boxes from Fort Worth just before they were to have been delivered to 71 Tarrant County precincts.

It was estimated that 650,000 persons would cast ballots in the Democratic primaries, and that the Republican primaries would result in continuous excitement.

In the Democratic contest the fight was bitter, with the popuarity of Governor "Ma" Ferguson, titular head of the party, at stake.

Five persons sought the Democratic nomination, the three leading ones being "Ma" Ferguson, seeking re-election; Attorney General Dan Moody and Lynch Davidson, Houston lumberman.

The Republican ballots were removed shortly before the time set for delivery to precincts and were later discovered in a garage. An attempt had been previously made to have ballots, duplicating the official ballots, printed.

MAKES OFFER FOR BANK REORGANIZATION

Bridgeport, Ct., July 24 (A.P.).—Frank Ballard of Bridgeport, who is said to have offered $2,500,000 for reorganization of the Georgia State Bank and its branches, is believed to be Frank E. Ballard, former county commissioner of Fairfield County and now a realtor in Florida.

Mr. Ballard had been here for a fortnight and had talked with several bank presidents as to investments in the South and had mentioned having had interests in banking concerns in Southern States. He lives at Coral Gables, Fla., and is identified with development projects.

CALL STRIKE ON AIR PIRATES

Chicago, July 24 (A.P.).—A nationwide "radio strike call" against what it termed "unfair conditions, now known as pirates," was issued today by the Broadcast Listeners' Association of America. Receiver owners were advised not to listen to stations which jump their wave lengths or increase their power.

The announcement stated the action was taken as a result of the relinquishment of control over broadcast radio by the Department of Commerce. It urged B. L. A. members "in all parts of the United States to go on strike immediately against all unfair stations by refusing to listen to them at any time, under any circumstances. Unfair stations are the ones now known as pirates—the station that jumps its wave band originally allotted or which increases the power granted it."

The association said strikers would be furnished with a list of "unfair" stations.

A previous strike conducted through the organization a year ago brought an agreement by all Chicago area broadcasters to observe "silent night" by remaining off the air each Monday night.

Simultaneously with the B. L. A. "strike call" one local station, WBBM, on 226 metres, announced that it planned to increase its power output from 1,500 to 10,000 watts.

VIRGINIA "NAVY" FIRES ON MARYLAND CRABBERS

Norfolk, Va., July 24 (A.P.)—The police patrol boat Marguerite of the Virginia Fisheries Commission last night fired on Maryland crabbers who were alleged to be violating the fisheries law of Virginia. Fisheries Commissioner Houston has ordered the gunboat Commodore Maury to Tangier Sound with orders to fire on the crabbers at their first hostile move.

'I'M NO LILY!' SAYS DRY AGENT

Colonel Green of California Admits Using Liquor at His Parties

San Francisco, July 24 (A.P.)—The Examiner says today that Colonel Ned M. Green, Federal prohibition administrator of Northern California and Nevada, who is accused by Federal authorities of misconduct and irregularities in office, has admitted the truth of the charges.

He was suspended today by the Treasury Department, pending outcome of the investigation.

The United States marshal's office has served more than 20 subpoenas for the appearance Monday of witnesses before a Federal Grand Jury which will investigate the charges against Col. Green.

To the reporter, Green showed two dresser drawers in his room filled with bottles of assorted liquors.

GREEN'S ANSWER.

"There's my answer to the government charges," Green said to the reporter. "There's the liquor they say I keep in my room. I drink it. I've served it on parties here, parties that men and women attend.

"Those charges are true, and any time the investigators or the members of the United States Grand Jury want to come here and see it, they're welcome, and they can taste it, too, if they want to."

The Colonel's admissions were made as he was preparing to go into a conference with Alf Oftendal, chief of the government's investigators, the newspaper says. No formal statement of what transpired at the conference was given out, but the Examiner said it was learned authoritatively that the dry administrator told Oftedal the same story.

Colonel Green is quoted as saying he secured the liquor in two ways, either finding it in packages on his office desk or in his hotel room.

Asked if he expected the Grand Jury to indict him, Colonel Green replied:

"Well, I'm no lily. My chief legal advisor, Linn, was trying to build up a defense for me that would have me claim that I never drink, never go out on parties. I told Linn, 'I don't want that kind of defense. I don't want to be known as a lily—a prude. I don't want the world to think I'm that kind of man.'"

ONE HURT AS PHONE POLE CRASHES

WOMEN, CHILDREN ESCAPE IN WIRE SNARL

A telephone pole crashed to the ground today at Shawmut avenue and Lenox street, carrying a tangled mass of wires and one man with it. Several women and children narrowly missed being hit. John F. Carroll of Canton, a lineman (shown in inset) was injured slightly, as he was on the pole when it fell. Nearly 200 telephones were made "dead" by the accident.

ROXBURY BOY IS DROWNED

Lowell, July 24 (A.P.)—Jmes Perrigo, 7, of No. 16 Texas street, Roxbury, was drowned today in Nutting's Lake, Billerica, when he dove from a boat and did not come to the surface. He had been spending a vacation at the cottage of Mrs. Mary Keegan, a relative.

Yankee Tourists Are Stranded by Agent's Death

Milan, Italy, July 24 (I.N.S.).—A group of American tourists are stranded here today owing to the sudden death of John Webster, 64, director of the Frank and Clarks Tourist Agencies. Webster was conducting the group.

Immediately after Webster's death police seized his luggage, including $10,000 in cash, pending termination of legal formalities. Most of this money belonged to the tourists who are now unable to proceed until the authorities release it. This may not be until another representative of the tourist agencies arrives.

CASH FOR U. S. $350,000,000

White Pines Camp, N. Y., July 24 (A.P.)—President Coolidge was today advised by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur that the Navy Department had completed arrangements with the court receivers in the Elk Hills oil case whereby the government will receive $350,000,000 in royalties by August 1 and $250,000 a month thereafter.

The Doheny-controlled Pan-American Petroleum & Transportation Company has been ordered to make the payments on the grounds that the money belongs to the government, regardless of the outcome of the lease litigation which is now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

DEATH TAKES POPULAR HUB ADVERTISING MAN

Charles P. Randall of West Roxbury, for many years prominent in Boston advertising circles, died today after an illness of three weeks.

He was director and assistant treasurer of the Franklin P. Shumway Advertising Agency, with which he had been connected for over thirty years. Entering their employ as an office boy, he had worked through the ranks until he became head of their accounting department. During this period he had gained a wide acquaintance among advertising men, and had made a host of friends.

Mr. Randall was a prominent member of the Highland Club of West Roxbury, and had been identified with fraternal circles in Cambridge, where he previously resided. He is survived by a widow and five children, including a married daughter.

PARKING BARRED NEAR SHORE AT WOLLASTON

A "no parking rule" affecting thousands of Greater Boston residents who flock to the Wollaston shore on hot evenings was publicly announced today by Acting Chief of Police Ernest H. Bishop of Quincy.

The ban applies to many of the side streets all the way along the beach from the northerly end of Atlantic to the southerly end of Wollaston. The rule is nothing new, according to Acting Chief Bishop, but the strict enforcement of it is new.

MOVE WITNESS STAND; NO MORE "WHISPERING"

Worcester, July 24 (A.P.).—There will be no more whispering of evidence into the judge's ear by prosecuting witnesses in Central District Court, as has been a long-standing custom in Worcester in many cases.

When court opened today the witness stand which has been close to the judge's bench, was moved several feet distant so that hereafter the defendant, his counsel and newspaper reporters may hear all the testimony in every case.

Rooms of all kinds in the Classified Ads.

TRY EXTORTION ON LOWELL MEN

Lowell, July 24.—Wealthy residents of this city were alarmed today when it was learned a second man had been made the target of an extortion letter.

The latest victim was H. Hutchins Parker, of the firm of Walter L. Parker Company, manufacturers of bobbins and spools, who lives at No. 53 Mansur street with his wife and family.

Mr. Parker received a threatening letter demanding $2,500 be left at 9:30 last night at the corner of Mansur and Fairmount streets.

The threatening epistle was similar to two received within the past week by William E. Potter, wealthy bachelor, who is president of the Lowell Humane Society.

3,000 PASSENGERS TO BE HANDLED HERE

More than 3,000 passengers are to be handled within a period of eight hours by the Cunard-Anthor Line tomorrow, when three cabin liners are due at their piers at East Boston.

The Cunard liner Laconia and Anchor liner Transylvania will sail, the former for Queenstown and Liverpol and the latter for Londonderry and Glasgow.

The Anchor Line steamer Caledonia is due to arrive here from Glasgow and Londonderry with 700 passengers for Boston and New York.

BATTERED BODY OF GIRL WASHED ASHORE

Deal, N. J., July 24 (A.P.).—The unclothed body of a young woman was washed up on Deal Beach during today's storm. It was found by Jack Patrick, a seven-year-old boy who thought it was a person sleeping and attempted to awake her. Monmouth County detectives said that the jaw was fractured and that there were a number of other wounds on the body.

10,000 BID FAREWELL TO PAPAL LEGATE, SAILING

New York, July 24 (I.N.S.).—His Eminence John Cardinal Bonzano, Papal legate to the recent Eucharistic Congress in Chicago, sailed today on the liner Conte Biancamano for Italy. Cardinals Mundelein, Chicago, and Hayes, New York, and an ecclesiastical entourage bade him farewell.

Public services were held in St. Patrick's Cathedral for Cardinal Bonzano. It was estimated 10,000 persons bade the Cardinal farewell.

MAN KNOCKED SENSELESS IN AIR BY 2,300 VOLTS

Tilton, N. H., July 24 (A.P.).—Found hanging unconscious upon the arm of a telephone pole thirty feet from the ground, Anson McEwin, a lineman for the Central New Hampshire Telephone Company, was taken to his home in Laconia today severely burned. An electric light wire swung against the telephone line he held and sent 2,300 volts into his body until the telephone wire melted.

FOUND DEAD WITH BIG MONEY IN HIS POCKET

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—John J. Hammond, a member of the Maritime Exchange, was found lying on the sidewalk in West Fifty-second street today with a fractured skull. He died before he could tell police who had attacked him. The first theory that he had been attacked by robbers was dropped when a large amount of money was found in his pockets.

Kills Herself in Cell

Los Angeles, July 24 (I.N.S.).—After two unsuccessful attempts, Mrs. Aimee Jennings, forty-nine, held in the county jail for blinding her husband with nitric acid, today ended her life by cutting her throat in her cell.

FOUR PERISH AS HOME BURNS

Muskegon, Mich., July 24 (A.P.).—Paul Christie, forty-one, Muskegon business man; his wife, thirty-seven, and two children, Marian, aged seven, and Charles, twenty-one months, were burned to death today when their home in North Muskegon was destroyed by fire.

FREES BOB HAIRED GIRL WHO SLAPPED MINISTER

Frankfort, Ky., July 24 (A.P.).—The Commonwealth of Kentucky has upheld the right of a bobbed haired girl to slap a preacher who made an utterance from his pulpit that no virtuous woman would bob her hair.

Yesterday Gov. William J. Fields granted a full and free pardon to Miss Martha Bates, of Whitesburg, a bobbed haired girl from the mountain section of Kentucky, who slapped the Rev. Arlie Brown, Baptist minister for criticising women who bob their hair.

The mountain girl took exception to the minister's remark made last May and walked up to the pulpit during his sermon and slapped him. A Circuit Court found the girl guilty and sentenced her to jail for 40 days, she served 15 days when the governor stayed her sentence to investigate the case.

The investigating ended when the governor let it be known he was opposed to "pulpit cowardice."

HUB ROWERS GO TO MARYLAND

Wilmington, Del., July 24 (A.P.).—Dr. Thomas K. Richards and Edward A. Wachter of Boston, who are rowing a small wherry from Norfolk, Va., to Boston, via the inland route, arrived at Chesapeake City, Md., the Maryland entrance to the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, today.

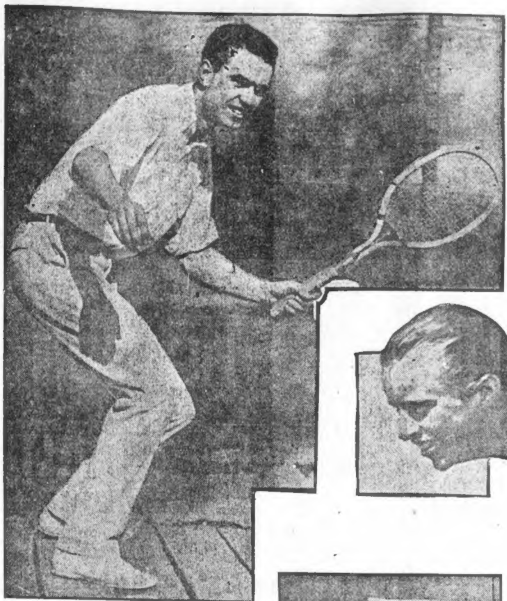
SECTION

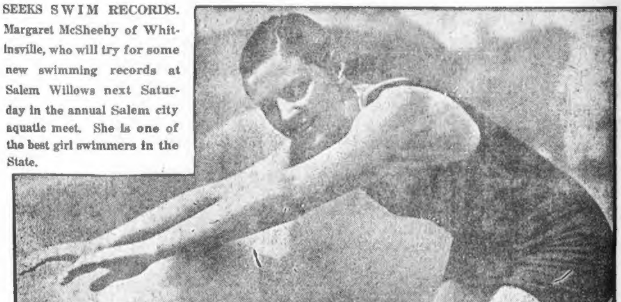
HUMIDITY UNABLE TO CHECK THESE STAR ATHLETES

A GOLFING PRODIGY. This eleven-year-old lad, James Flattery, was the youngest competitor in the Massachusetts junior golf tournament.



KING OF NETMEN. This clever tennis player, H. R. Guild, will defend his crown of North Shore singles champion at the Tedesco Country Club tournament.

SEEKS SWIM RECORDS. Margaret McSheehy of Whitinsville, who will try for some new swimming records at Salem Willows next Saturday in the annual Salem city aquatic meet. She is one of the best girl swimmers in the State.



TO DEFEND TITLE. Miss Helen Mearls, who will also swim in the Salem city meet and will defend her title of New England A. A. U. 220-yard champion woman breast stroke swimmer.

NAT NILES. Clever Boston tennis player will attempt to win a second leg on the Tedesco Country Club trophy cup in the tournament which opens today.

FAIR AND WARMER. Miss Martha Norelius is the sensation of the aquatic realm. The seventeen-year-old girl already holds two world records.

JUST FOR DIVERSION. Petite Josephine Paine of the Dearest Enemy company is an accomplished ball player as well as a clever actress. She twirls for the nine which represents the company and she's good!

BIG BILL TILDEN. The star of the tennis firmament has been showing Boston fans how the game should be played. He will give another exhibition in the finals of the Longwood Bowl tourney.

NEWEST OCCUPANT OF WIGWAM. Eddie Moore of the Pittsburgh Pirates has joined the Boston Braves and will be used as a utility infielder the rest of the season.

Mule Shirley, formerly with Washington, is playing first base for Hartford. Hartford obtained him from Rochester. Hipps was sent back to the Athletics.

Harry Hesse, Albany first baseman, will have to start all over again. When Dave Keefe of Waterbury held him hitless in the game of July 12.

TILDEN TOPPLES WHITE IN LONGWOOD BOWL DUEL

BIG BILL REGISTERS TRIUMPH

National Singles Champion Proves Too Clever for the Texan in Title Match

By STED CHANDLER.

William T. Tilden, 2nd, of Philadelphia, defeated Lewis N. White of Austin, Texas, in three straight sets at the Longwood Cricket Club, Chestnut Hill, today, thereby winning his second leg of the celebrated Longwood bowl and further establishing himself as the monarch incomparable of the world of tennis.

The scores were 6—3, 6—4, 6—3, and that adequately represents the difference between the two plays as far as paper figuring goes. They are, however, of two diametrically opposed types; on the one hand the scintillating kind of his throne, displaying his rich variety of strokes and the accumulated intelligence of many years of tennis.

On the other hand, the cool unperturbed youngster, fundamentally a defensive player, lacking in any of the champion's color, but popular with all for his sportsmanship and the steady soundness of his game.

In spite of our friend the Weather Man's unpromising display, a large gallery gathered early to witness the five finals on the afternoon's card. The courts, which had been covered with tarpaulins during the storm, had not suffered from the rainfall.

Tilden, the national champion, was the favorite, owing to the sensational easy manner in which he had ridden through the field to reach the finals bracket. But Lewis White, whose steady racquet and cool head had cut down such stars as Chapin, Tawara and Harada, drew as much interest as the old master himself.

Tilden served first and lost the first point on an out. He took the game, however, with the loss of but two points. Tilden broke through his opponent on the second game, aided by a double fault and a pair of outs which just missed the baseline. He made his advantage three games on his second service.

White allowed Tilden but one point in the fourth game, but dropped the fifth. The champion was placing long, harsh drives to the corners with deadly accuracy. White captured his second game on his own service.

Tilden won his service on the seventh game, and White did the same on the eighth, placing the score at 5-3. Tilden outmaneuvered the Texan and was on the long end of a 6-3 score for the first set.

Set score:

Tilden .....4 4 4 1 4 3 2 2 4—30—6
White .....2 2 0 4 2 5 2 4 0—21—3

White aced the Philadelphia on his first service in the second set and evidently out the game.

CHAPIN IN FIRST.

Tilden won his service, but White again did the same, sewing the game with a pretty ace. Tilden lost no time in evening the count, scoring heavily with a terrific backhand crossfire which White could not return.

White won his third consecutive service, repeating his previous ace to run out the game. The sixth game was featured by several long rallies and touched deuce four times, but although White's stroking was becoming harsher and accurate the game finally went to Tilden on two unexpected cuts by the Texan.

White played his usual steady and thoughtful game, more defensive than otherwise, but his tendency to avoid any unnecessary running worked against him under the fire of Tilden's wide variety of placements.

In the ninth game Tilden broke through the service of the cool Texan, the second service to be lost thus far in the match. The second set was also Tilden's, six games to four.

Tilden .0 4 2 4 0 7 3 4 4 4—32 6
White .4 1 4 1 4 5 5 0 2 1—27—4

Tilden broke through White on the third game of the third set. On the seventh game White won at love from the champion, acing him twice. The scoreboard then read 4—3, Tilden leading.

Tilden annexed the eighth game on his own service, and broke through his opponent to win the set, match, and a second leg on the Longwood bowl. Set score:

Tilden .... 3 4 4 4 5 5 9 6 3—35—6
White .... 5 2 2 2 7 3 4 4 2—31—

KINSEY QUITS NET GAME FOR BUSINESS REASONS

New York, July 24 (A.P.).—Howard O. Kinsey of San Francisco, sixth ranking tennis player in the country and a candidate for the American Davis Cup team, has elected to abandon tennis competition for the balance of the season owing to the demands of business.

Kinsey made known this decision upon his arrival from abroad where, in company with Vincent Richards, he made an extended tour of European countries. He is now en route to California in response to a request from his business partner.

COCHET WINS CONTEST WITH BRITISH NET ACE

Cobourg, France, July 24 (A.P.).—Play in the final round of the Davis Cup competition for the European zone began here today between teams representing France and Great Britain.

Henry Cochet of France defeated J. C. Gregory, 7-5, 4-6, 7-9, 6-0 in the first singles match.

CRICKET TEAMS READY FOR BATTLE

By BILL McAULEY

The Wanderers vs. Athletics, West India Is. vs. University, Windsors vs. Yorkshires at Franklin Field and Standards vs. West India A. at North Brighton are the cricket games carded by the Massachusetts State League for today and the fans who follow the doings of this league couldn't wish for a better program.

University, leaders of the league, who haven't lost a game yet, seem to have a harder time winning from the tailenders than from the elevens in the thick of the fight.

Last week it was the lowly Yorkshires who threw a scare into them, the Cambridge club just copping the verdict in the last minute of play, and now comes the Bees, full of confidence and predicting that they will be first to down the leaders. The game at North Brighton should also be a hummer as the Standards would like nothing better than to take a fall out of the West India A. bunch.

In the Bay State League Everett will be at home to the league-leading Brockton outfit. The Glendale Parkers haven't been going too well of late and unless they improve considerably Brockton should not find much trouble in bagging the points.

St. George's will travel to Lawrence where they oppose Dick Reader's Arlington Mills team and Opie Mitchell and Egbers are bent on making it three straight wins.

FLOWERS IS FAVORITE

Los Angeles, July 24 (A.P.).—Tiger Flowers, Georgia negro middleweight boxing titleholder, will enter the ring here this afternoon a strong favorite to defeat Eddie Huffman, Los Angeles light-heavyweight. The ten-round non-titular bout will be the feature event of southern California's initial outdoor venture this season.

Huffman has spent much of his time in framing a defence against Flowers' flashing left. Huffman climbed to the top of the coast light-heavyweight ranks in a series of bouts this year, including a draw with Georges Carpentier of France. The champion will weigh in at approximately 166 pounds and Huffman at 174.

For Flowers the match will be a forerunner to defence of his crown.

Helen Wills to Play at Forest Hills

New York, July 24 (I.N.S.).—Admirers of Helen Wills, national women's tennis champion, were cheered today by her announcement that she will defend her national title in the championships beginning August 16 at Forest Hills, N. Y.

Miss Wills said that following a week of practice she had become convinced that she was in condition to undergo the strain of championship play.

Miss Wills will make her first tournament appearance since she was operated on in France when she plays in the women's invitation tournament at East Hampton, beginning next Wednesday. She said she would not play in the Essex County tournament at Manchester, Mass., which starts next Monday.

Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the Wightman Cup team, and Mrs. Molla Mallory, former National champion, are expected to play against Miss Wills at East Hampton. From there Helen will go to Seabright, N. J., to engage in the invitation tournament beginning there August 2.

SMITH BREAKS MARK TO COP MET. CROWN

Salisbury Plains, N. Y., July 24 (I.N.S.).—MacDonald Smith won the Metropolitan open championship today and shattered his own record for the Salisbury No. 3 course.

Gene Sarazen

Smith, in the third match against Gene Sarazen in the playoff for the Metropolitan tournament, was out in 35 and home in 31, for a total of 66, a new course record.

Smith last week early in the tournament had established a new record of 67 for the course, breaking the previous record of 68, which he himself had held.

Sarazen, who had fought a stiff battle to retain the title which he held, finished four strokes behind Smith today. Sarazen was out in 37 and home in 33.

The Smith-Sarazen battle has been going on for this title for a total of 126 holes. At the end of the tournament proper the two were tied and they played another 36 holes last Sunday in an effort to break the tie, but to no avail.

Today Smith was able to shake off the dogged Sarazen, who could not quite rise to the heights of the Lakeville pro in his record-breaking round.

Sarazen won the first hole with a birdie four while Smith squared the match with a birdie three on the second hole. They halved the next two in par figures but Smith advanced to the lead by continuing par golf on the fifth while Sarazen took three putts to sink his muddy ball after being on the green in two.

They halved the sixth, but Smith picked up another stroke on the seventh with a birdie four. They halved the eighth and ninth in par figures.

Starting on the return trip two up, Smith uncorked a brand of golf which left Sarazen in the ruck despite the fact the defending titleholder shot three under par for the trip.

Smith defeated Sarazen only after three extra rounds of eighteen holes. They were tied at the end of the championship proper and likewise deadlocked at the termination of the first and second playoff rounds.

In breaking the course record, Smith bettered his own mark of sixty-seven he established in the first round of championship play, July 15. His putting today was the deciding factor. Sarazen played golf which would have won a majority of matches but Smith was unbeatable, especially on the greens.

On ten of the eighteen greens, Smith holed his ball with one putt, piling up an amazing total of seven birdies on ten holes.

THE CARDS FOLLOW:

LARRY BENTON MAY TWIRL

Cincinnati, July 24.—Larry Benton and Adolfo Luque will have their third battle of the season at Redland Field this afternoon, and incidentally it will be the rubber game between the native of Cincinnati's West End and the native of Cuba, whose first big league berth was with the Braves.

Each season Benton and Luque usually hook up several times, and unless something prevents them from coming together as carded today, they will maintain their record of clashing once in every series between the two clubs.

So far this year Luque has beaten Larry once, and Larry has returned the compliment. May 11 Luque won over Benton and Cooney in Cincinnati, 6 to 4, Larry being knocked out in the sixth inning.

June 5 Benton won over Luque and May in Boston, 5 to 1, Luque being lifted with the score 5 to 0 against him after he had pitched seven rounds.

DODGERS SEEK HOME RUN KING OF PACIFIC LEAGUE

Oakland, Cal., July 24 (I.N.S.).—A report that Buzz Arlett, Oakland home run king, has been sold to the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League could not be confirmed at the Oakland ball park today.

Secretary Herbert McFarlane admitted that negotiations were under way and that overtures had been made to the Dodgers in an effort to get Pitcher Boehler for the Oakland club. The Dodgers are interested in Arlett, McFarlane said, but even if the deal is made the Oakland swat king will not be delivered to the Brooklyn club until the close of the present season.

Jack Dempsey Scores Two Easy Victories in Coast Bouts

THIS is the twelfth chapter of Jack Kearns' thrilling story in which he replies to the charges of Jack Dempsey. It is the first time that the man who put Jack Dempsey on the pugilistic map tells of his experiences when he was a prize fighter. Read this story every day in the Boston Evening American.

By JACK KEARNS

TWELFTH CHAPTER

IN driving home to Dempsey the importance of left hooking, I told him that left hooks always paved the way for the knockout that brought world's titles to new champions. I wasn't spoofing. It is a fact that I stressed with Dempsey. Day in and day out we schooled him. He had got Marty Farrell's weaving and bobbing style down pat.

All this time, when not coaching Dempsey, I was tossing out the old bally. I made 'em eat it up. Dempsey, Next Heavyweight Champion, was my battle cry, and though he might get licked the next time out, I sung him into fame. About three days before the fight I dropped in to see Simpson, the promoter. He was tickled pink.

Jack Kearns

"Well, Jack," he began. "It looks like a complete sell out. You've done your stuff fine and dandy. Never better ballyhoo anywhere. Giving that big egg of yours twenty dollars makes me a big winner on this fight. I've been hanging around for a break like this for years."

"Just a moment, just a moment. What's this about twenty dollars?" Did I get you right?"

"Twenty dollars is what you said and that's what you'll get."

I gave him a dirty look and then opened up: "Why you must be daffy, Simpson. Who ever said anything about twenty dollars? Do you suppose I've been spilling all this ballyhoo for twenty bucks? Twenty per cent. is what I said. And you know it!"

Dempsey's Stock Takes Jump

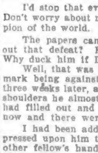
Well, he raised the devil. Kicked like a steer. I let him rave on. I had him hooked. Dempsey was the draw. He had brought them in to buy tickets. His was the name that was blazing across the sport pages. Simpson was desperate.

When I threatened to take my man out, he wound up by adding five per cent. to the twenty I demanded. He learned a lesson in closing a deal right there, but he didn't have to hog it. He made plenty on the show.

A different Dempsey than the one Al Norton introduced me to got into the ring three days later with Willie Meehan. He plastered him good and plenty. Of course, they tried to discount Dempsey's good work by saying it was an off night with Meehan. I guess it was.

He didn't think Dempsey was that good and had taken things for granted. It was funny to hear the fans trying to explain it. Few of them wanted to give Dempsey credit for having improved.

The defeat of Meehan sent Dempsey's stock sky high with the other promoters and I made the most of it. The ballyhoo went sizzling. In the meantime I went right back to work on Dempsey. He was still full of flaws and I tried to correct each and every one of the mistakes I had seen him make against Meehan. I kept him going in the gym and he was on the road every morning. He worked hard and I began to like him better than ever. He was a fine companion and he tried to do everything to make good.



Jack Dempsey

But the ballyhoo had startled him. He was seeing his name in type that he little dreamed existed. He couldn't make it out at all. Not once but a dozen times he would stop in his work and, looking me right in the eye, he'd say: "Jack, I really can't fight like that. You're making me a fighter.

"I know you think I can fight, but it's you that is doing the fighting in the papers. You've got me half believing it myself when, as a matter of fact, I know I can't fight up to those kinds of claims. You've just conned them all into it, and you've conned me along with the rest of them. You'll find out that I can't live up to that ballyhoo."

Ballyhoo Stirs Jack to Depths

I'd stop that every time with this speech: "Boy, you're a natural. Don't worry about not living up to the ballyhoo. You're the next champion of the world. You're a great fighter."

The papers came back at me about Norton. Why didn't I wipe out that defeat? Hadn't Norton biffed Dempsey all over the place. Why duck him if Dempsey was as good as I said he was?

Well, that was just what I wanted. I didn't like the idea of that mark being against Dempsey, so I sought the match. We met him three weeks later, and when Norton saw the robe fall off of Dempsey's shoulders he almost rolled off his stool. He little dreamed that Jack had filled out and improved so in every way. He had pink cheeks now and there were lines to his shoulders.

I had been adding speed to Dempsey's other studies and had impressed upon him the importance of taking the fight right out of the other fellow's hands before he had chance to get along. It was my old bush league stuff used over again. The bell rang and I turned him loose on Norton.

Bush League Tactics Triumph

"Run right over there and hit that chump on the lug before he can get his hands up," I told Dempsey.

Bang went the bell! Bang went Dempsey's short left hook! And bang went Norton's head on the floor! Dempsey had scored a knockout in thirty-eight seconds.

Up to that time I had not settled on just how good Dempsey was. Of course, as I worked along with him, day after day, I saw great possibilities in him, but it wasn't until he flattened Norton that I believed the boy could really fight. I hadn't been kidding myself no matter how loud I sang his praises.

But when Norton hit the floor, I knew I had something, for he had obeyed instructions to the letter, under fire.

And I'll say this for Dempsey. From beginning to end he was the easiest fighter to handle that I've ever had anything to do with. He would do what you told him, when you told him, and would not take it upon himself to impose his own ideas in a fight.

He never changed from the first day to the last in that respect, and it was a pleasure to teach him things. But in the early days he had that little fear of not making good. He kept telling me he couldn't fight.

Y. M. C. A. POOL MAGNET FOR HUB SWIMMERS

The Summer swimming season in the big salt water pool at the Huntington avenue branch of the Boston Y. M. C. A. is now in full swing, with nearly 700 men and boys in the tank daily. Actual count on one day showed a total for the day of 360 boys and 320 men. To aid all such men the Y. M. C. A. is keeping its 20,000 gallon pool open, and free instruction in swimming is given those who are members of the association. Robert Muir, director of the natatorium and himself the holder of many swimming championships, is directing the various classes.

May Elwell to Take on Eva Morrison

May Elwell, Revere's seventeen-year-old swimming star, will test the mettle of Eva Morrison, the Nova Scotia long-distance champion, in a swim from the Warren street bridge, Charlestown, to Boston Light on Sunday afternoon.

[illegible] yesterday accepted the challenge hurled by Miss Morrison several days ago and stated that she believed she had a splendid [illegible] to defeat the clever Pictou girl swimmer.

"I swim four miles every day, regardless of weather conditions during the summer," said Miss Elwell today. "As a result I am in perfect condition.

"I made a distance equal to the Boston Light swim last August and am confident I can repeat. I recently made the Revere to Nahant swim, a distance of four miles in one hour and forty minutes and swam from Graves Light to Bass Point, five and one half miles, three weeks ago in two hours and three minutes."

Miss Elwell said that she cherished an ambition to swim the English Channel next year if the results of her efforts this year meet her approval.

"I have been swimming since I was about eight years of age," continued Miss Elwell. "There is no better form of exercise or developer than swimming. I realize that Eva Morrison is a great swimmer but I have the utmost confidence in my ability to defeat her."

WILLS READY FOR SHARKEY RING BOUT

By JACK CONWAY.

DEFINITE announcement as to the date of the bout between Harry Wills, leading challenger [illegible] Jack Dempsey [illegible] Sharkey [illegible] New England [illegible] next Wednesday [illegible] it will probably be staged at the Polo Grounds, New York, on September 7.

The New York Boxing Commission has wired Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, asking him to name his terms [illegible] vises the show more closely than when [illegible] promoter like Rickard or Fugazy is putting on the event.

Jack Conway

Paddy Mullins, Wills' manager, has informed Johnny Buckley that he considers Sharkey the outstanding challenger for a match with the negro. Paddy says he will be prepared to arrange terms for the contest by next Wednesday.

Mullins still has a [illegible] Wills may be able to [illegible] bout this year. He [illegible] Dempsey and Tunney [illegible] Chicago as they now are in New York that New Jersey will then [illegible] the only open spot. In the event of New Jersey also refusing to approve the match, Mullins [illegible] opinion Dempsey must then consent [illegible] Wills.

It's virtually a 100 to 1 shot that Wills is out of a Dempsey bout for [illegible] though a Sharkey-Wills tussle is [illegible]

If the match is made it will be the first time in years that a New England heavyweight has been battling in a bout of international importance. Sharkey is doing light training so that he will not be caught napping [illegible]

New York promoters figure that Wills and Sharkey would be the next biggest drawing card to a bout with Dempsey as one of the principals. It would probably attract half a million dollars to the box office.

THE QUEENSBORO CLUB is making preparations for its opening show, which will be staged at Mechanics Building on next Friday night.

Topping its card will be Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, one of the comers in the game, particularly the light heavyweight class, and Johnny Risko of Cleveland, a two handed puncher who can make himself exceedingly troublesome.

They are slated to clash in the club's 10-round feature bout and from every angle it should be a real feature. There is no guesswork about the men. They have been fighting in rings all over the country, are tried performers who can deliver and have every reason for doing so.

Now Is the Time to Buy

Another similarity between men's good clothes and good securities—style never changes until the owner has received dollar for dollar value.

That's why during this month of sales you should invest in a new stock of year-round business suits, a combination outfit for sports and office and even a light motor or rain coat while prices are low and quality still high.

Shrewd buyers are taking advantage of their opportunities these days by watching the Men's Clothing advertisements in the Boston American and Boston Advertiser.

The Taxi Dancer by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

A Thrilling Story of Night Life and Night Clubs; A Mad Whirl of Adventure

Joslyn Poe, daughter of a proud, but impoverished Virginia family, wants a career, not marriage. Her mother wants her to wed. The wild blood of a line of daring women runs in her veins. She wants adventure. A seeress tells her of the "wildness" in her blood. She goes to a dance. She determines she will settle her problem that night—to marry George Ransom, well-to-do, but no dandy, or—go to New York in seek of adventure. She meets a stranger at the dance.

Milton Stein, the stranger, advises Joslyn to go to the city and to dance. Joslyn, hungry and discouraged, is heard weeping by Kittie Lane, a manicurist. Kittie gets Lee Rogers, a friend, to invite them to dinner.

While the girls are at the table with Rogers, James Kelvin movie star, attemps to cultivate Joslyn's acquaintance. There is a near row with Rogers. Kelvin goes away leaving with Joslyn a sense of some strange influence over her. A few days afterward Kittie is brought home blind from bad booze Joslyn rushes to Stein's Academy to take a job as a "Taxi Dancer" to care for Kittie. In the academy she meets Stephen Bates, a man-about-town, who offers to go to Kittie's help Kittie's life and sight are saved by the doctors secured by Bates. They both go to a party at Bates'. Kelvin is there. He kills Bates in a quarrel.

CHAPTER VI

JOSLYN caught a glimpse of Kelvin's face. It was horrified, ghastly sobered by the tragedy. All that had been theatrically handsome dissolved. He was colorless, pinched at the corners of the nostrils. [illegible]

"Yes . . . I killed him." [illegible]

[illegible] were [illegible] from the heap on the floor rather than escaping from the room Kelvin backed away a stark, trance-like figure. An eerie quality all at once, permeated the room, held the petrified attention of the small audience [illegible] suspense.

[illegible] Kelvin's tread [illegible] crafty, catlike. He was [illegible] toward a window tha[illegible] thrown [illegible]

"He's going to jump!" It was Kittie's voice, husky, with a soprano crack running through it.

Paralysis gripped Joslyn. Her lips were numb, stiff things, her heart a frozen weight in her bosom . . . blackness rose around her and she sank into a chair, fighting off an overpowering, reeling faintness.

When she opened her eyes the [illegible] excitement. Three of the [illegible]

[illegible] for Mr. James Kelvin — [illegible] It was a red haired girl [illegible] speaking.

Somebody looked out the window and laughed hysterically.

"A fine chance. He climbs down that fire escape but what good will it do him? The one man [illegible] screen [illegible] his known [illegible]

[illegible] his cursing . . . Kelvin had killed him because of that

"It's the Rottenest Luck," Exclaimed the Red Haired Girl

The middle-aged theatrically-tinged man with whom [illegible] had danced earlier in the evening returned to the room. "[illegible] I phoned the police," he said, morosely. "We're in for it [illegible] It's no good trying to duck or we'll get in a bad jam."

The red-haired girl lit a cigarette. "It's the rottenest luck," she complained. "The publicity, and all that, it'll probably queer my engagement in the Ballard revue. How can a girl be funny when she's mixed up in a murder?"

Another girl [illegible] "You don't know Ballard, [illegible] He's the original publicity hound. A good, clean murder [illegible]"

The putty faced youth held up a thick hand. "Now listen, folks," he insisted. "I'll be in as wrong with my old man on account of this as any of you could possibly be. I've got as much or more at stake as anybody here. What I mean to say is—we've all got to tell a straight story and the same story. Kelvin and Bates were drinking and they got to quarreling over a girl—"

His eyes roved the room as he peered nearsightedly at faces until he came to Joslyn's.

"We didn't see exactly what started the fight but we all did see the finish," he went on. "If they third-degree us let's tell the same story. The facts are rotten enough without jazzing 'em up for the press."

The note of fear in his voice [illegible] everybody brought home to each one the direct personal consequences of James Kelvin's crime. To Joslyn, at last thinking of herself, the full conception of the scandal that was about to burst upon her city, became hideously [illegible]. The death of a Broadway millionaire at the hands of one of the most popular screen stars in America would be news to broadcast to every corner of the nation . . . and her own part in it . . .

The words of the putty faced young man came back . . . telling off her doom: "Kelvin and Bates were drinking and they got to quarreling over a girl— "

And she, Joslyn Poe, was the girl! Her name, her picture, would be in every newspaper throughout the country. It would mean nation-wide notoriety . . . nation-wide shame. She would be branded forever and ever and ever . . . hung with scarlet . . . an object for the scorn of women, the leers of men.

Visions of home, her mother, her father and her old friends passed unbearably through her mind, tore at her heart, and reduced her to muffled, dry-eyed sobbing. And all, in a few short weeks she had [illegible] the sinister prediction of Minnie Gumbo [illegible] had [illegible] herself with infamy . . . a bad woman.

An Arm Stole Around Her Shoulders; It Was Kitty Lane

An arm stole tenderly around her shoulders. It was Kittie Lane, faintly fragant with a French perfume.

"You poor kid—oh, you poor kid! And you didn't do a thing to deserve it! You get a dirty break like this and you're innocent as an angel! Listen, darling—you got folks? Mother and father and all that?"

Joslyn's voice was dry as dust. "Yes."

For a moment, Kittie was silent; then determinedly, she squeezed Joslyn's hand. "Well, kid—lay off worrying. Me, I'm an orphan, and you're the best pal I ever had. You went through for me when I was sick and broke. D'you think I'm going to let them put the bee on you in this mess? You're tootin' right. I ain't."

A confusion of voices was at the door, the room was dominated suddenly by uniformed men . . . a air of red-faced burlies in citizen's clothes, [illegible]

"You go through the place, Mike."

A ring of authority was in the voice of the detective-sergeant "Now everybody stay right where you are. Now then . . . what happened? Speak up, somebody—one at a time."

Kittie Lane got to her feet and brushed at a curl in the bob over her ear.

"I guess I better break the ice, Captain," she said coolly. "You see, Bates has been making a play for me a long time—paid my hospital and doctor bill when I was sick. You can look up the records. Kelvin was a friend of mine, too. In fact, I guess there was a woman at the bottom of it—and I happen to be the gal. Now, if there's anything you want to ask me, I can stand the gaff. Shoot!"

The Making of a Husband

By Ann Lisle

AND that was the undercurrent of my thoughts all during the long day which wore so slowly to a close. What would Jim say? Jim alone of all the group about us knows that when the Wardell [illegible] [illegible] to the [illegible] Br [illegible] guardian [illegible] This was [illegible] to me that my [illegible] was wrong.

Yesterday some one told May and Zeke that Anette—not Nicholas Berry [illegible] Dr. [illegible] fortune. Why [illegible] some one have told them that I was to be named as guardian? Perhaps he or she had told them this. How could I know? And why was it [illegible] that we find out all [illegible] had been the [illegible] May and Zeke [illegible]

I was in the midst of thinking about this when I noted half-consciously that Bertie Lingard's car was no longer parked out in the yard. I had no idea how long it had been gone and indeed it didn't seem to matter [illegible] except for the fact that I had been preparing dinner for [illegible]

Vaguely I seemed to recall hearing his car drive away hours before. And then in breezed Jim, at least an hour ahead of his usual and ordinary schedule. Before I could say a word of greeting he burst out breathlessly:

"So Anette's gone! Any news of her in the last—"

"How do you know?" I broke in. "Who told you?"

"Lingard," Jim said in a distrait voice. "No further news?"

"When did he tell you," I asked.

"Met him up the road a piece back, driving like a chap in a dream. He [illegible]

[illegible]

"Not with us," Jim protested.

"When Bertie left you here at the gate, she wasn't in the car?" I insisted.

[illegible] Jim asked [illegible]

"I [illegible]," I confessed vaguely. "It [illegible] on the verge of becoming an heiress."

"I have no reason to [illegible] out of the way. As well suspect you," Jim said grimly. "You were jealous of her. You didn't like having the guardianship wished on you. But I'm not suspecting you of anything."

"Thank you," I said drily. "I'm not suspecting you either. The sheriff suspects May and Zeke."

"But why should they want to harm her?" Jim asked. "She wasn't in their way."

[illegible]

"Of course, I [illegible]" he exclaimed at last.

"Why didn't you say so in the first place?" I questioned.

"It stands to reason I didn't tell 'em," Jim said. [illegible] at my elbow all during [illegible]?"

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

PUSSYFOOT JOHNSON claims that if he were the head of the prohibition department it would only take him six months to make this country so dry that even a revenue agent wouldn't be able to get a drink.

AT the end of the year there'd be so little whiskey in the United States that a canary bird could go wading in it and not get his ankles wet.

IF he had his way, there wouldn't be enough gin in America to make a gargle for a humming bird.

MR. JOHNSON is the gentleman who enforced prohibition on all the Indians. America was afraid that the Indians would get intoxicated and want their country back.

AFTER we bought most of our land from them for a quart of Scotch, Uncle Sam wouldn't let them drink it.

PUSSYFOOT cleaned up three or four reservations, but that's nothing compared to the reservations at one of the New York night clubs.

"KITTYFEET" says that he would start his work in the East and make Manhattan so dry that people would go riding around on camels instead of taxicabs.

HE claims that in less than six months there'd be dust on everybody's tonsils.

IT'S hinted that he's even in favor of making embalming fluid against the law.

HE wants all the undertaking parlors to use grape juice in their work.

HE says the American people are drinking everything. A popular beverage nowadays is the "flivver highball." A man puts alcohol in his Ford in the Winter, drains it out in the Summer and serves it to his friends.

PUSSYFOOT may want to put a stop to the manufacture of these little automobiles, claiming that they're cocktail shakers.

IT'LL be too bad if a motorist has to give up a car that mixes his drinks for him.

"TABBYFOOT" says that too many doctors are abusing the prescription privilege. He'll probably take the padlocks off of saloons and put them on fountain pens.

EVEN if the doctors do continue to give us prescriptions, we may have to go to Canada to get them filled.

DAILY SHORT STORY -:- -:- -:- IN THE RAIN

By Jack Woodford

"I THOUGHT," said Grace coolly, as she faced Wharton across a table made of natural wood, "that you were to have a party of friends here?" It was eight-thirty and already dark. The automobile which had brought them had returned toward the roadway proper, many miles away. It was raining soggily outside.

Before replying, Wharton went over to touch a match to the natural log fire which the servants had prepared before leaving, and to light a cigarette. Grace watched him intently, her heart pumping wildly with the full knowledge of her danger.

He was well set up for a man of his age. His shoulders were wide and firm looking, and he bent forward with the easy grace of a man who attends meticulously to the matter of daily exercise.

"I thought so myself," he said speciously, blowing out the match. "I suppose the rain kept them away." Grace thought irreleventiy that it was easier to look at the back of Wharton's broad shoulders than at his face; it was only when one looked into his eyes that the nasty little beast smiled back out of them.

The firelight leaped up and played upon her slender form as she leaned against the rough table. A contrast indeed was she in a light chiffon as compared to the long walls and stuffed hunting trophies which adorned the cabin.

The red glow of the fire and the soft, caressing glow of the amber electrics, fed by a storage battery, accentuated her delicate beauty to the point of sheer loveliness. Mr. Wharton was enthusiastic as he looked at her.

"Of course we shall have to leave immediately," Grace said very firmly as she drew her wrap about her.

"I suppose, retorted Wharton, "that I should go through the conventional gesture of locking the door and placing the key in my pocket; but I don't think that that is necessary.

"You see, this lodge is a good two miles from anywhere at all, and, should you be silly enough to run out there into the rain, it would take me about two seconds and twenty paces to reach you and bring you back.

"I'm quite certain that there is no one within earshot. No, girlie, you might just as well make the best of things. I want to do a lot for you. I'm going to give you the artistic education you've always wanted, and I'm going to buy you so many pretty things that you'll have to spend all of your spare time wondering which of them to put on. All that you need do is to be a little reasonable.

"In short, this whole thing was a deliberate plan; a frame-up. There are no other guests coming. Now I do hope you won't act the fool."

He started toward her and Grace retreated to the wall, thinking desperately.

In a second, Wharton's arms were about her, and Grace felt that they were steely arms, belying the outward appearance of the man, for, dissipated or no, he had yet the keen love of life to eek it out as long as possible by taking proper physical exercises daily.

She struggled with all of her puny strength, but his lips found her throat and pressed upon it like live coals, and his arm bound her head as in a vise, so that presently his lips upon hers made her senses reel with disgust, sent the blood to her head in such a manner as to indicate only too plainly that in a moment she would faint.

"Well, well, well!" suddenly remarked a cheerful voice from nowhere.

Wharton let go of the girl and whirled about. Steadying herself with a hand upon the wall, Grace looked, too. A young man, smiling, handsome and jolly looking, stood not ten feet away.

"Awfully sorry to interrupt," he went on pleasantly, "but, you see, I overheard a part of your conversation and, though I'm not the sort of fellow to interfere in things—and I wouldn't interfere if this were a party by mutual consent—still, I regret that I must make a nuisance of myself under the circumstances."

"Where the hell did you come from?" snapped Wharton, advancing toward him threateningly. As the youth made no move to retreat at his advance Wharton stopped advancing.

"The fact that I am here is, I believe, of more importance than the fact of where I came from," pleasantly replied the young man. And without a lost motion, without even losing his smile, he lunged.

Although the older man was much the larger he went down like one of the logs with which his lodge was built. In an instant, however, he was up and in fighting posture.

The young man backed off and for twenty minutes Grace was treated to the most amazing exhibition of the fistic art that ever she had seen.

They fought all over the room. Rolled upon the table, smashed it; rolled under the table. Crushed a chair as though it had been made of matchwood. Kicked each other.

Quite unconsciously she found herself cheering aloud when, at last, the slim young fellow, with a quick snap, tapped Wharton to sleep with a blow upon the point of his chin. Instantly he turned and faced her.

"You beautiful, little thing; I'm so glad that I happened to be here," he panted, as he wiped the blood from his face with his sleeve. "You see, I've been up against it in the past year, lost everything except a small yacht, so I've been running rum for a firm down in Bimini.

"This old geezer," he indicated the fallen gladiator by kicking him slightly in the ribs, "seldom uses this petite little shack of his, so my men and I have been using it as headquarters. We land the stuff here and a motor truck calls for it."

Grace's smile changed to a look of sadness.

"What's the trouble?" he asked lightly.

"A bootlegger," she echoed, "Oh, I wish you weren't."

"You wish I weren't?" he echoed, grinning, "and why, pray tell, young lady—should you care? But, never mind don't answer," he added impishly, "not yet anyway. I'm going to take you back to town now, and all the way I'm willing to listen to any arguments you may have on tap against bootlegging.

"Confidentially," he lowered his voice, "you're the only person I've ever seen yet who might be able to convince me that I oughtn't to do it."

It had stopped raining outside. Wharton groaned and sat up, blinking about.

"Just give me the key to your car, old man," said the youth, advancing threateningly. Without a word, Wharton handed over the key. "I'll phone you later where I leave it when I get this girl back to town," the younger man told the older one. They went out and started the car.

"Now, argue your head off," he told her as they started under a bright moon for the city.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE---By HELEN ROWLAND

LOVE may be a game in which you play against each other; but marriage is a partnership in which you work WITH and FOR each other.

* * *

The trouble is that nobody wants to work at marriage, any more. The day after the honeymoon each wants to run out and play his or her own little game. Nobody wants to "give in," any more; that's why so many marriages give out so soon!

* * *

"Be yourself!" "Express yourself!" "Preserve your personality!" These are the slogans of the age. But you can't "be yourself" and be "somebody's wife" or "somebody's husband," at the same time.

* * *

Preserving your personality is one thing—and embalming your prejudices is another. Most men hang on to their personal opinions and their self-indulgent little habits, after marriage, like a bull-dog to an old shoe. And most women cling to their pet whims and complexes like a cat to a bone.

* * *

If you want to "live your own life," why don't you live it, alone? Why drag in an innocent bystander, and try to roll him out flat and trim him down to fit your own life-design?

Most people spend half the courtship in telling each other how perfectly wonderful they are—and the other half thinking how they are going to remodel each other after the wedding.

* * *

But, marriage should be reciprocity—not a reformatory; and husbands and wives should be boosters—not censors.

* * *

Marriage is either an altar, where a woman sacrifices her vanity, her independence and most of her comfort, and a man lays down his freedom, his selfishness and most of his ego—or else it deteriorates into a prize ring in which the bigger bully wins.

* * *

This "freedom" is no doubt a grand and glorious thing—but you can't run it through a wedding-ring, and it won't fit into a kitchenette apartment for two.

If you can't give in or give up, if you can't let go and let live, if you've GOT to be yourself, don't try to be somebody's "other half."

* * *

If you are wedded to your art or to your job or to your prejudices of your "self-expression," don't marry any man or woman—because that is too much like BIGAMY!

* * *

"Being yourself," in a life partnership, is mostly being a road-hog on the path of matrimony. Marriage isn't a one-way street!

* * *

Marriage is a Burbanked product of the crossing of two individualities, the merging of two personalities.

* * *

But even Burbank himself couldn't have crossed an egoist and a temperamentalist!

TELEPHONE BUYING NEW ENGLAND "TAX NOTES"

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. is investing a substantial part of the proceeds of its $154,000,000 stock issue in the tax anticipation notes issued by New Engand communities, pending the time when the money will be required for permanent investment in telephone facilities.

At this time of the year many cities, towns, and counties are selling their tax anticipation notes in order to secure the necessary funds for current expenditures, these notes to be paid later in the year when the taxes are collected.

In investing its surplus funds the American Company estimates when they will be needed to pay for telephone plant and attempts to secure investments which will mature as near as possible at the time when the funds are required. These tax notes are a particularly desirable form of investment for such a purpose.

Safety of principal is the first consideration of the American Company, and tax anticipation notes are universally regarded as high class securities. Those of New England communities are rated among the highest. No short term investments are regarded higher, not even the notes of New York City, unless perhaps they be United States Treasury notes.

New England tax anticipation notes, because of their excellence, command a very low rate of interest, but nevertheless they yield a return higher than that which banks can afford to pay for the use of money.

MEXICAN SEABOARD IS DOING WELL IN TEXAS

Strength of Mexican Seaboard Oil Co. stock reflects developments on company's holdings in Texas where it has acquired over 70,000 acres of leases. In Shackleford county, company's Sedwick No. 1 well at depth of 3570 feet is 17 feet in lime, and, while flow is small, the well is believed to have opened a new pool or an extension. Two more deep tests are being started. Wells are in Section 1561, TE & L survey.

In the shallow field of new Albany, where Mexican Seaboard has opened a new shallow pool, it's No. 4 Casey has been completed at 49 feet and is producing from a different sand than other wells it has drilled in that area.

BUS LINES OF RAILROADS TO BE STUDIED

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Interstate Commerce Commissioner J. J. Esch will preside at the important hearing to be held in Boston at the United States courtrooms September 8, when the I. C. C. will conduct a hearing to determine the extent of motor bus competition with the railroads. There is likely to be fireworks, for the competition is red hot.

Commr. Esch

* * *

Similar hearings are to be held all over the country. Officials of 51 railroads in the United States and Canada which supplement their rail service with motor trucks and buses will be heard. Finally the commission will report to Congress its opinion on what legislation, if any, is needed to regulate interstate motor transportation.

Any good reference library will provide you with a set of famous slogans, etc. They will run all the way from "Don't Give Up the Ship" to "Who's Loony Now." They will not include the Wall Street stock exchange house's "Nearly the Whole Market Is on the Bargain Counter," as made just at the start of the series of savage breaks, witnessed this week.

* * *

Perhaps the "bargain counter" was like the famous Boston basement where goods are automatically marked down day by day!

* * *

Certainly the Bears enjoyed the barbecue in high-priced specialties provided by the fat Bulls.

* * *

If this has been merely a break in a bull market, as home surmise, it has been well calculated to strengthen the technical position by the accumulation of an eager short interest.

* * *

Since everyone talks about the weather, I'll add a few lines. They say the hottest day of the spell had a "high" of 103, which was beaten in 1911 by a single degree. The thermometer in front of the famous spa on Washington street, where the late "Tom" Lawson used to breakfast on a single cup of coffee, registered 105. That temperature was recorded down by the sidewalks where we stroll and not from the top of the Federal Building. It was the highest heat in Boston's history.

* * *

"And of the stock market," asks the Old State Street Trader, still bearish, "it is not written: 'Give us this day our daily break'?"

President Walter S. Bucklin of the National Shawmut Bank has returned from a six weeks' trip to Europe that included London, Berlin, Paris and Rome. He received a warm greeting from a host of friends.

Recently we mentioned the Bush Terminal as a company showing improvement. Issued today, the report of Bush Terminal Company and subsidiaries for quarter ending June 30, 1926, shows net income of $436,380 after interest, taxes, depreciation, etc., equivalent after allowing for Bush Terminal buildings 7 per cent. preferred dividends and Bush Terminal Company 6 per cent. preferred and 7 per cent. dividends, to $1.15 a share earned on outstanding 187,770 shares of no-par common. This compares with surplus of $359,682, or 59 cents a share of common, in preceding quarter and surplus of $397,856, or 87 cents a share, on same basis, in the second quarter of 1925. Surplus for first half of 1926 amounted to $796,062, equal, after preferred dividends, to $1.74 a share of common, against $749,521, or $1.41 a share, in the first half of the preceding year.

Secretary Mellon sails for Europe. Mr. Morgan is in Europe. The character of the stock market changes. "Is it a coincidence?" asks a Boston Stock Exchange house.

HOW BOSTON BROKERS VIEW STOCK MARKET

How members of the Boston Stock Exchange view the stock market is shown in following comment:

Charles Phelan & Co.—The rise should be resumed when the present technical condition has been sufficiently corrected.

Paul Johnson & Co.—A position of caution on the sidelines is commendable until the market's trend becomes more clearly established.

Tucker, Anthony & Co.—It is worthy of note that the oil group has been holding firm throughout the week, implying that in their case weak holdings had already been shaken out during the previous two weeks.

Clark, Childs & Co.—The stock market's recent action has not been pleasing to those bullishly inclined. Twice during the week a promising rally petered out and was replaced with weakness. It is obvious that brokers' loans are substantially above any figure which be considered normal, and with the tape running five or six minutes behind sales in Thursday's market it is difficult to argue that public participation is small.

Hayden, Stone & Co.—The French situation will provide a critical test to the markets. That this is—broadly speaking—a distributive period we believe there can be no reasonable doubt.

GROSS sales and earnings of Frank G. Shattuck Co., owners and operators of the Schraft's chain of stores, established new records for six months ended June 30.

FINANCE

—By B. C. FORBES—

Summer has brought business and stock market sunshine rather than agricultural sunshine. Those who deal in stocks are doing better than those who deal in stock and grain. Stock market quotations have approached towards the previous peak of the year. The market is not as inflated now as it was then. Most attention lately has been devoted to the best industrial issues and to dividend-paying rails. Public utilities have acted more rationally than formerly. At that, it should be regarded as unsafe to follow the rise blindly. The stock market clearly is ahead of, not behind, business and agriculture. The question is, will these catch up?

That remains to be seen.

If New England is slipping, the First National Bank of Boston has no reason to know it. That bank's deposits have reached the highest total (over $305,000,000) ever achieved by a New England bank. Boston now has the sixth largest national bank in the whole country. It's a pity New England hasn't more organizations of the go and calibre of the First National Bank of Boston.

Banking is one line of business in which fathers are sometimes succeeded by sons. This rarely happens nowadays in large industrial enterprises, in large railway systems or in large utility enterprises. Even among large banks it isn't often that a son succeeds to the presidency.

Curiously, on the same day this week two sons of very prominent financiers were elected to the directorates of important banks with which their fathers were prominently connected. Henry P. Davison, son of the late towering partner of J. P. Morgan & Company, has joined the board of the New York Trust Company in place of his brother, F. Trubee Davison, who was installed a few days ago as assistant Secretary of War in charge of aviation—and immediately took to the air.

Cleveland E. Dodge takes his seat as a director of the National City Bank, the largest in America, in succession to his father, the late Cleveland H. Dodge. The latter, by the way, was often cited as an example of the finest type of public-spirited American business man.

* * *

George F. Baker, Jr., is an officer, but not president, of his father's First National Bank. James A. Stillman became president, for a time, of his father's bank, The National City. William Woodward, head of the Hanover National Bank, is a nephew of the founder of that house. The senior partners of Kuhn, Loeb & Company are relatives of former partners. James Speyer is of a long line of bankers.

But it isn't at all necessary for a young man to have a powerful daddy in order to reach the top.

New York Curb

New York, July 24 (I.N.S.).—Cumberland Pipe Line featured the trading on the curb market today with a loss of 3⅜ points to 108⅜. The general list was irregular, with fractional declines outnumbering the slight gains.

At 220, American Light & Traction showed a point gain.

Industrials were quiet. The oil list was unsettled with moderate price changes.

Nevada Consolidated Copper 5s featured the bond group with a point advance to 95.

TODAY

from their ill nature. Meanwhile they are friends of ours, we are in their debt, mentally, as they are in our debt financially. It would be a pity to deprive French trade of the hundreds of millions that Americans spend in France every year.

As for denunciation of Americans in Britain, they put Old John Bull in the unpleasant attitude of a welcher at the race track, dashing across the field to escape his creditors, cursing them as he runs.

John Bull, when he borrowed, meant to pay or did not mean to pay. If he meant to pay, let him pay. If he didn't mean to pay, let him be an outspoken welcher, say so, and stop weeping.

A GREAT EMPIRE with its money at par, having financed itself through the world's greatest war with the help of this nation, cuts a sorry figure when it whines and begs.

In our Civil War, the most the British could do was to keep from siding against the North, and with slavery, because they were temporarily deprived of cotton supplies.

IN VARIOUS CITIES parents are warned to "keep their children away from dogs, especially during hot weather."

Why not compel owners to keep the dogs away from children? Yesterday's news told of many children attacked by dogs. One of the children was bitten twenty times. The law says that if the dog had never bitten anybody before, he was entitled to each one of those twenty "first" bites. Quite an allowance.

A DOG ENTERED a public playground in New York city and bit half a dozen of the children. Rabies is on the increase. And the authorities can only advise parents to keep their children away from dogs. Intelligent parents will see to it that dogs keep away from their children.

ROYA AVANN of Detroit is ordered deported for moral turpitude. The same order, issued in the case of the Countess Cathcart, fell to the ground. She was a countess, attracted attention, deporting enthusiasts backed down.

The Supreme Court will decide about Roya Avann, and moral turpitude generally. Just what brand of moral turpitude is charged against the young lady of Detroit is not definitely stated. Something is said about two husbands. Certainly the learned justices will keep in two lines from John, chapter eight, verse seven: "He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her."

THE PURSUIT of bootleggers by the government leaves something to be desired, but bootlegging in itself is well organized. In Chicago, for instance, bootleggers have headquarters close to the Cook County Jail. Prisoners order their drinks by whistling, one whistle for beer, two whistles for whiskey. Guards of the jail, making frequent trips, bring the beer or whiskey to prisoners in rubber containers, hidden under their coats. That is system.

EVEN OUR little brown Filipino friends are planning to boycott United States goods. The Philippine Supreme National Council holds off the boycott for awhile because it rather likes Colonel Thompson, sent by President Coolidge to investigate.

If the Filipinos succeed in carrying out their plan to be free from United States control, they will have a chance to try control by the Japanese, an intelligent nation, willing to colonize. The Japanese, by the way, wouldn't stand much boycott nonsense. Let the Filipinos ask the Koreans about that.

N. E. POWER'S AIM IS TO USE PEAK ENERGY

The past Spring's experience of the New England Power Co. and two of the interconnected systems, the Adirondack Power & Light Corporation and the Power Corporation of New York, demonstrated typically the very important economic advantages in having hydro-generating stations on different watersheds, and in tie-ins for the interchange of current between them and with the big steam plants.

Because of co-operation in distributing excess power each company was able to take full advantage of its own flood waters and the freshet periods, differing as between rivers in their time of beginning and ending, lapped over so that in combination the benefits of high water were enjoyed three weeks longer than with any one of them alone. Many millions of kilowatt hours were generated and distributed, which could not have been utilized had it not been for interconnecting lines.

AIM OF COMPANY.

The aim of the hydro-power company is to convert into electric energy the maximum of the water which passes down its streams, not only under normal conditions, but in time of flood as well.

To accomplish this there must always be users for the power even when the output reaches the extreme peak, which is always likely in the Spring of the year and occasionally at other times.

Very large storage facilities will take care of a great part of the flood waters, bottling up their energy for future use. But not all power systems have reservoirs of so generous a capacity, and even the greatest possible provision for storage may still leave basins brimful and running over, discharging the excess of flood waters.

The solution of this problem of conservation lies in interconnection with other power systems which can absorb surplus power to advantage among their own customers or by passing it on to others. In the case in question, at one time the Power Corporation of New York was pouring excess current into the transmission lines of the Adirondack System, which in turn was passing much of it on to the New England Power System, from whose lines it entered the steam generated systems at Boston, Worcester, Providence, Fall River and elsewhere. Steam turbines were shut down because surplus power was arriving, generated by the flood waters of the northern Adirondacks.

The co-ordination of power stations located on different watersheds was strikingly illustrated. The flood period of any one of the various rivers covered a span of about six weeks. But in combination full advantage was taken of high water for nine weeks.

The streams of the three companies divided themselves in to three groups, based on the time required by watersheds in delivering to the rivers the waters of melting snows and of rains, and also, to a lesser extent, on their geographical location. First to come into flood were the Deerfield river of the New England Power System and the Mohawk and its tributaries, the Hoosick and Canada Creek of the Adirondack Co. A week later the more sluggish watersheds of the Connecticut of the New England System and the Hudson of the Adirondack System reached their flood stage. Finally, still later by two weeks, the Black river and other waters of the Power Corporation of New York, on the northern Adirondack watershed rose to freshet heights.

Then for a month the waters of all these rivers were at high levels. First to recede were those which were first in flood, then the Connecticut and Hudson fell, and finally, a fortnight afterward, the Black river.

ANNUAL HOVEY STORE OUTING

The C. F. Hovey Associates turned out in full force today, despite the weather, to enjoy the annual store outing at Feldston-on-the-Atlantic, near Brant Rock. Nine hundred employes armed with streamers, confetti, balloons and noise-making instruments were transported in decorated buses to the beach for a day of fun and sports.

The program scheduled included 100 yard dash for men, in charge of Roy Hall, auditing office; 50 yard dash for girls, Will Brown, advertising; potato race for girls, Alan Wilkie, buyer; three-legged race for girls, Mrs. Nellie Wallace, buyer; Gretna Green race for men, Louis Ehrlich, assistant buyer; sackrace for men, Henry Coyne, buyer; tug-of-war for girls, Alan Wilkie; tug-of-war for men, Henry Coyne; tennis tournament, Sarah Cooperstein, training department; Charleston contest, Marion Golden, buyer; bathing beauty contest, James Maxwell, floor superintendent. Members of the committee were optimistic about the weather.

A. Snyder, executive office, planned the outing as chairman of hte committee. Adolph Ehrlich, president of the C. F. Hovey Company, backed the project financially.

SEEK ARREST IN SESQUI FIGHT

Philadelphia, July 24 (A.P.).—New issues continued to unfold today in the controversy over what ministerial associations charge is an attempt to enforce respect for the law.

The fight, precipitated by opening the Sesqui-Centennial on the Sabbath in alleged violation of the blue laws of 1794, has taken on additonal aspects, including the issue of Sunday baseball. Developments in the last few hours include:

E. L. Austin, director general of the centennial, cited into court on a warrant charging violation of the Sunday observance law.

Decision of the Methodist men's committee of 100 to appeal the decision in Common Pleas Court, which refused to issue an injunction to keep the exposition closed on Sunday.

Announcement that the Philadelphia Americans have well-developed plans to test the legality of Sunday baseball and plans to play a test game are under way.

Failure of receipts to meet expenses will necessitate either the city or the directors of the centennial raising $2,000,000 to keep the exposition open until December 1.

Presbytery of Chester urges ban on exposition and will ask Governors of various States to close their exhibits on Sundays.

ROBERT SCOTT 'CONFESSES'

Chicago, July 24 (A.).—The celebrated case of Robert and Russell Scott, convicted murderers, came to public attention again today with a statement by Robert to the Herald and Examiner that he fired the shot that slew Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk.

Robert, who was returned here from a California prison recently, pleaded guilty to the murder before Judge William N. Gemmill and was sentenced to life imprisonment after he had denied on the stand that he fired the fatal shot. In his statement to the paper he declared, "I lied to save my neck."

His elder brother, Russell, about whom has revolved some of the most intricate legal maneuvering in American jurisprudence, earlier pleaded guilty also, was sentenced to death, withdrew the plea, was found guilty by a jury and after a half-dozen trials and reprieves now is waiting death on the gallows in October.

That the purported confession of Robert will result in new legal warfare to save Russell from the noose seemed certain.

Legal Notices 91

CITY OF BOSTON—Transit Department. Proposals for building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit. The Transit Department of the City of Boston, 1 Beacon street, seventh floor, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States, for building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit. This section is located on and near the Shawmut Branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, between Clayton street and Geneva avenue, and is about one half mile in length. It consists of the construction of a road bed, together with station platforms, approaches and passageways, installing concrete floors on present bridges, and certain equipment, such as conduits, manholes, etc., for a two-track surface railway extension of the third rail service of the Dorchester Tunnel. The work includes alteration and construction of bridges, concrete retaining walls and foundations, concrete roadways, drainage systems, sewers, removal of structures, regrading, etc. A bond of an approved surety company will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in a sum of 40 per cent. of the total bid price. Proposals should be filled out and signed by the bidder on forms to be obtained at this office, enclosed in a sealed envelope, indorsed "Proposal for Building Section Two, Dorchester Rapid Transit," and delivered to the department or to its secretary before 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, August 17, 1926, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read, with a properly certified check in the sum of fifty thousand (50,000) dollars, payable to the city. This check shall become the property of the city if the contract, within the time prescribed after the date of the notification by the department of the acceptance of the proposal and the readiness of the contract for signature, is not executed by the bidder. Proposals must be made in duplicate. The sealed duplicate, without check, is to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor, Room 20, City Hall, previous to the time named for opening the proposals. Plans, proposals, specifications and forms of contract can be obtained at this office. A deposit of $25, in cash or by certified check will be required for a set of plans and two sets of the specifications. Mutilation of them will be deemed sufficient cause for the forfeiture of said deposit. The department reserves the right to reject any and all proposals and to award the contract as is deemed to be for the best interest of the City of Boston. By order of the City of Boston Transit Department. A. D. Adair, Acting Secretary.
